HOLDUP MEN DYNAMITE PAY CAR, KILL 4 MEN

FOILED IN THEIR ATTEMPT TO GET $35,000 PAYROLL

SCENE OF OUTRAGE AT NEW-PORT MOUNTAINSIDE NEAR WILKESBARRE, PA.

DYNAMITE PLANTED ON TRACK,
SET OFF BY RADIO BATTERY
CONTROLLED IN WOODS

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—A band of holdup men who dynamited a makeshift mine pay car on Newport mountainside, killing four men and injuring six, in a daring attempt to gain a $35,000 payroll, used an automobile with New York license plates to escape, police told the United Press today.

The license number was CX-9406. This clue was obtained late last night but an immediate check with New York authorities could not be made, it was said.

The attempted holdup was frustrated through the heroism of one of the survivors of the car's crew.

At first, the blast was believed to have been the work of amateurs, but investigation by local and state police revealed an elaborate and careful plan by the robbers, who were willing to commit mass murder to obtain the payroll.

Police said the bandits utilized mine dynamite, a highly powerful explosive. The dynamite was placed between the narrow gauge tracks of the private railroad owned by the Glen Alden Coal Company at a point midway between Hanover and Warrior Run. A wire ran from the explosive several hundred feet into the surrounding woods where the robbers, believed to be four in number, had arranged a protective barricade of sand bags. A radio battery was used to explode the dynamite.

Late yesterday afternoon the payroll, ordinarily a first aid mine car, started from Truesdale colliery bearing the paymaster and his crew, for the Glen Alden Coal Company's Tunnel No. 20. Bolted to the bottom of the payroll was an iron box containing the money which was arranged in layers—each layer of money being covered with a heavy iron sheet.

Slowly the pay car was drawn up the side of Newport mountain toward the tunnel mouth, where hundreds of miners were awaiting their fortnightly salary. The bandits watched from behind their sandbag shelter and after the electric engine had passed over the hidden dynamite, they touched the wire to the battery.

There was a terrific concussion and debris was hurled in all directions as the mine car was blown to bits. The iron money box was shattered and the paper currency virtually snowed on the mountainside.

Three of the payroll crew were killed instantly. They were: Arthur C. Webb, 31, Scranton, paymaster in charge; Frank Budzinski, 40, miner, of Plymouth, and Martin Burns, 31, section foreman of Hanover township. The fourth victim, James Shevlin, 32, a section foreman of Hanover township, died in a hospital, with a fractured skull. Both his legs were blown off.

Six others on the payroll car and engine were injured, two seriously. The engine, its coupling broken, ran wild down the mountainside, finally jumping the track at a sharp curve.

Meanwhile, the bandits ran from behind the barricade toward the pay car. As they approached the wreckage, John Bookil, 50, a Plymouth miner, dazed and injured, rose to his feet and started toward what remained of the money chest.

One of the robbers shouted:

"Stop! Get away from there!"

Bookil staggered on. Unnerved the robbers turned and fled into the woods. Police say the dynamite ran into the nearby hamlet of Warrior Run and escaped in their waiting automobile.

Posses were formed last night to search the entire countryside with instructions to bring in the bandits dead or alive. It was believed the bandits headed toward the New York line, through Scranton, over the Binghamton turnpike.

Officials of the Glen Alden Coal Company said that all but $3,000 of the $35,000 in the pay car had been recovered.

HARRISON SALISBURY, EDITOR MINNESOTA DAILY, SUSPENDED

Minneapolis, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Harrison Salisbury, editor of the Minnesota Daily, a University of Minnesota publication, has been suspended for one year for smoking in the library, Dean E. E. Nicholson announced today.

Salisbury declined to comment on the expulsion other than to reportedly hint that "there is more to it than smoking."

Declaring that "no further statement is necessary," Dean Nicholson also refused to say whether material appearing in the Daily was connected with the incident.

Student comment was aroused last week over a two-column front-page article depicting sorority life in a girl's boarding school.

GAS EXPLOSION SNUFFS OUT LIVES OF 6 COAL MINERS

Straven, Ala., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Cause of a gas explosion which snuffed out the lives of six miners at the Peerless Cahaba coal mine was under investigation today.

Officials had not determined the exact nature of the blast yesterday which killed outright Chalon Brantley, Coleman Davis, Arthur Lawler and Robert Vernon, white, and two negroes.

James Chasser, final member of the group which was at work about 1200 feet below the surface at the time of the explosion, was seriously injured and taken to a hospital at Birmingham.

CHICAGO POLICE TRAP 3 BANDITS, KILL 2 OF THEM

CAPTURE THIRD MAN, LOSE ONE OF THEIR DETECTIVE
PATROL

WARNED BY BUZZER SIGNAL,
SQUAD SURPRISED ROBBERS
AT WORK

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Police trapped three bandits in the darkened corridor of a west side duplex today, opened fire with pistols and shotguns in the narrow quarters, killed two of the robbers, captured the third and lost one of their own number.

Warned by a buzzer signal, the detective squad surprised the bandits as they poked pistols into the ribs of Harry Sucherman, rich sausage manufacturer, trying to force him to open a wall safe.

The three bandits slashed a panel from the door of the Sucherman apartment just before dawn, entered, roused Sucherman from bed and demanded that he open a wall safe containing a quantity of jewelry and money.

Through previous arrangement with his brother, Nate, who lives in the apartment above, Sucherman pressed a hidden buzzer and the brother called police. While the bandits flourished automatic pistols in Sucherman's face a detective squad arrived, surrounded the house, the members entering from front and rear at the same time.

Lieut. Edward Conroy was shot in the right arm as he stepped through the front door. He opened fire along the narrow hallway with his left hand as three other detectives started firing from the rear. Another squad of five detectives arrived and joined the fighters, their riot guns roaring in the hallway.

Trapped between the two fires, the bandits fought until two of them fell. Residents of the apartment house covered behind doors and beds as bullets crashed in the hallway and the well-to-do West Jackson boulevard district reverberated with gun fire.

Detective Jeremiah Murphy, one of the attackers from the rear, fell shot to death in the first few volleys. One of the bandits, later identified as R. Holtzman, was killed in the hallway and another, Sam Wolff, died on the way to Bridewell hospital.

Sam Wasserman, who police said is wanted in Detroit, ran upstairs after the shooting, closely followed by police. They caught him and threw him through a window into the arms of the squad outside.

Six Sucherman brothers live in the apartment house and had arranged some time ago the buzzer system of intercommunication in case bandits tried to raid their safes.

Lieut. Conroy's wound was not serious and after having it dressed he went to the bureau to aid in questioning Wasserman.

7 Bills Designed to Carry Out Prohibition Law Enforcement Reform Program of Hoover

PREPARED FOR CONSIDERATION OF CONGRESS

HEADING THE LIST IS MEASURE
TRANSFERRING ENFORCE-MENT TO JUSTICE DEPT.

DRY LEADERS CONFIDENT IT CAN BE ENACTED AT THE PRESENT SESSION

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Jan. 14.—Seven bills designed to carry out the prohibition law enforcement reform program of President Hoover and his law enforcement commission were being prepared today for consideration in congress.

Heading the list was the measure to transfer enforcement from the treasury to the justice department, which is the only measure the seven dry leaders are confident they can enact at the present session. It will be introduced before night in the house by Rep. Williamson, republican, of Rapid City, S. D., chairman of the committee on executive expenditures and it will be referred immediately to Williamson's committee for consideration.

The other bills provide:

1. Codifying all laws referring to prohibition.

2. Amending the Volstead act to make padlocks effective upon hidden property owners.

3. Making prohibition agents of all state, county and municipal officers.

4. Making all "casual or slight" violations misdemeanors.

5. Enlarging the border customs patrol under the coast guard.

6. Relieving congestion in the federal courts by eliminating jury trials in minor cases.

7. Enlarging the powers of United States commissioners working under the federal courts.

Dry and wet generally have found objections only to the last two bills. Senators Glass, democrat, Virginia, dry, and Hawes, democrat, Missouri, wet, for instance, expressed doubts about the constitutionality of any measure tampering with the right of trial by jury in spite of the fact Attorney General Mitchell, who rules on such questions, has pronounced himself in favor of the proposals.

Comment on the wet's on the law enforcement commission's report struck chiefly at the provision for eliminating jury trials in misdemeanor cases. They seized the commission's statement of the enforcement conditions as an argument for modification of the laws.

"It is clear the commission has concluded, after eight months of study, that the problem of prohibition is not to be solved by tinkering with enforcement procedure, but has its root in fundamental of human relations to what can and cannot be done through the agency of a criminal law," Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said.

The president's message will be taken up in the senate judiciary committee probably at the regular meeting next Monday, Chairman Norris indicated.

PUPILS ALL OUT JUST AS WALLS OF SCHOOL CRUMPLED

Corvallis, Mont., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Just as the walls of the burning Corvallis grammar school threatened to crumple, the last pupil marched out of the building in orderly fire drill formation today. A few seconds later, one brick wall collapsed.

Fire originated in the basement and spread quickly. When the alarm sounded, the children showed no signs of panic and filed out of the building with as much coolness as if it had been just another drill. There was no time to gather up hats and overcoats.

The building was a complete loss. Flames had gained too much headway for the fire department from Hamilton to check the fire.

HEARING OPENS IN BLACK DUCK RUM KILLINGS

Providence, R. I., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—With at least 17 witnesses to be heard, the Providence county grand jury today opened its investigation into the Black Duck rum killings.

The case involves the shooting to death by coast guards of three alleged rum smugglers aboard the notorious rum runner Black Duck at the mouth of Narragansett Bay on Dec. 29.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS MAY HAVE TO CLOSE THEIR DOORS

CANNOT BEG OR BORROW SUFFICIENT MONEY TO KEEP INSTITUTIONS GOING

CLOSING COMES AS POSSIBILITY DURING WRANGLING OVER FINANCIAL TANGLE

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—School children of the second largest city in the United States probably will find public school doors locked against them on Feb. 1 because Chicago cannot beg or borrow enough money to keep its elementary educational institutions going.

Closing of the schools, mentioned as a dire possibility many times during the wrangling over the city's financial tangle, appeared a probability today as the school board was deadlocked over its 1930 budget and the mayor and city council were so busy squabbling over the municipal budget they had no time to consider ways to relieve the schools.

H. Wallace Daldwell, president of the school board, was pessimistic. "Payrolls amounting to $2,555,000 will have to be met this month and we had only $100,000 to pay them."

The city council majority faction forced through its "economy budget" last night despite the fact over two-thirds of its items have been vetoed

POSSE OF 50 IS CLOSING IN ON 2 VICIOUS BANDITS

GUNMEN ACCOMPANIED BY WOMAN TAKE SHELTER NEAR CHANDLER, ARIZ.

RUNNING GUN BATTLE IN FLOR-ENCE, WHERE DEPUTY WAS KIDNAPED

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—In the heavy brush land near the junction of the San Pedro and Santa Cruz rivers, a posse of 50 men was closing in slowly today on two bandits, who already have wounded two peace officers.

The gunmen, accompanied by a woman, were believed to have taken shelter in the section after they passed through Chandler near here, sending volley after volley of bullets at authorities who attempted to stop them.

Deputy Lee White was cut down by the heavy gunfire and was removed to a hospital where his wounds were considered serious.

The other officer hurt was Joe Chapman, who either was thrown or leaped from the bandit car as it sped down the main street of Chandler.

A report was made to Sheriff C. L. Wright that the trio temporarily had eluded the posse and had moved to a position in the brush near Laveen, a small desert settlement.

A cordon still was kept around the river junction but Indian trackers and others were sent to the position near Laveen.

The trio had been taken into custody as suspicious characters at Florence yesterday afternoon, when one of the men drew a revolver and forced a deputy into an automobile. They then whisked the deputy away toward Chandler. At Chandler, Chapman the kidnapped deputy, leaped from the automobile during an exchange of shots with Chandler authorities.

by Mayor William Hale Thompson. The mayor likely will veto the police, fire, health, street cleaning and other essential department appropriations again as being insufficient. Attempts at compromise were frequent and futile.

COMMUNISTS AND UNEMPLOYED IN DISTURBANCES

Bucharest, Roumania, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Communist and unemployed disturbances were reported from towns throughout Roumania today. Many persons were injured in clashes with police and hundreds of rioters were arrested.

The most violent disturbances were in the capital where police and demonstrators fought in the streets.

A severe fight was reported from Temesvar where rioting followed an attempt of arrested demonstrators to escape from jail. Clashes also were severe at Jassy.

PLANE LOST IN ALTITUDE TEST FOUND WRECKED

BODIES OF AVIATORS, MARRA AND KIRKPATRICK, LAY
NEAR MONOPLANE

GAMEKEEPER DISCOVERS AIR-
PLANE, FIRE DAMAGED,
NEAR AMSTON, CONN.

Amston, Conn., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—The lost Fairchild monoplane in which Daniel Marra and William Kirkpatrick set out on an altitude test from Farmingdale, Long Island, last Friday, was found wrecked here today.

The bodies of the two aviators were near the ship, which was badly damaged by fire.

The plane was discovered in the woods near Amston lake by Fred Rowley, a gamekeeper.

The locality where the fog-blinded fliers died had been the graveyard of two airmail pilots within the last three years, Daniel Kline and Ned Carrington.

Search had been conducted in this heavily-wooded and sparsely settled country since reports had been received of persons who heard the drone of the lost plane's motor. These were traced to Ashford, near here.

FOUND GUILTY OF ACCEPTING BRIBES BROM BOOTLEGGERS

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Henry Strawn, former federal prohibition agent, today was found guilty by a federal jury of charges of accepting bribes from bootleggers.

Strawn was found guilty of accepting $250 from Albert Gill, Green Bay, and $1,500 from Jake Gurtz, former Brown county sheriff.

Ben Finke, formerly ace of the prohibition department here, was found guilty last Sunday in his trial.

COLD WAVE CAUSES DEATH IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—The first death directly due to the cold wave which swept southern California was reported from San Bernardino today.

A man named Johnson, resident of Baldy Mesa in the desert country north of San Bernardino, froze to death, the sheriff's office was informed.

Deputy sheriffs left immediately to attempt to break through the snow drifted highways leading to Johnson's cabin.

Banker Killed in Fall from Eighth Story Window

New York, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Herbert S. Martin, vice president of the banking firm of S. W. Straus and Co., was killed today in a fall from an eighth story window in his Park avenue apartment, police said.

Martin was to have left for Egypt today, and was suffering from a nervous breakdown, police were told.

HACK WILSON MAY LOSE JOB IF HE FIGHTS SHIRES

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—William Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, is in favor of trading Hack Wilson if the star outfielder enters the ring to box C. Arthur (The Great) Shires.

Wrigley told the United Press that he does not want Hack to fight the White Sox first baseman but added that he has made no threats to trade Wilson.

TOLL OF DEATH, SUFFERING AND PROPERTY DAMAGE

THREATEN TO ASSUME DISAS-TER PROPORTIONS IN MANY PLACES

GRAVEST MENACE IS ROARING
WATERS IN THE MISSIS-SIPPI VALLEY

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Storms and floods lashed widely separated portions of the nation today, carrying the toll of death, suffering and property damage to foreboding levels and threatening to assume disaster proportions in many places.

The gravest menace was in the roaring waters of streams and rivers in the Mississippi Valley tributary to the Mississippi. Swollen by heavy and repeated rains and the runaway waters from snow-blanketed northern states, rivers flung levees aside and poured over thousands of acres of agricultural lands. Hundreds of were homeless and being sheltered in communities above the clutch of the flood.

The far west from the Sierra Nevada to the Rocky Mountains was a desert of snow.

Scores of persons were marooned and several were lost in the storm-harassed territory.

Some 60 had been killed as a result of the storm since it began last week. Hope had waned for Maury Graham, Western Air Express air mail pilot unreported since he took off in a snow storm Friday from Las Vegas, Nev., on a flight to Salt Lake City, Utah. Search for him was being conducted both by air and land.

Leonard Kip Rhineland, wealthy New Yorker, and three companions still were marooned in his cabin at Charleston Park, near Las Vegas, Nev.

Amateur mountain climbers, tourists and natives of the "Painted Mountain" sections of the southwest were trapped in cabins and shelter stations, facing the peril of freezing and starvation while searching parties and rescue crews sought to reach them.

President-elect Ortiz Rubio of Mexico and his party were cut off from outside communication at Grand Canyon, Ariz.

More than 200 families in western Tennessee had fled before the rush of angry water and 100 families between Cairo, Ill., and Hickman Bluffs, Ky., had been driven from their homes in the lowlands.

The worst flood crisis since the disaster of 1913 confronted Indiana. The Wabasha river at Vincennes was 11 feet above flood stage and still rising. A break in the levee at that point would put half the city under four feet of water.

A break in a levee above Vincennes, Ind., brought relief to that flood sector today but it promised to be only temporary. More rain during the night along the Wabasha probably will send the river back to the 1913 level reached yesterday.

The break occurred between Eminson and Oaktown and inundated 20,000 acres of land. Flood waters at Vincennes, however, continued to pour over a new protecting wall and attacked a fresh earth barrier hastily thrown up.

Another break occurred near Clinton and 1,300 acres were submerged, again bringing temporary relief along the river. Overnight rains, however, promised to undo the relief brought by the breaks.

Two women were buried when a house they occupied in Palmue collapsed during the hurricane.

Numerous SOS calls have been picked up by the Dunkirk radio station. The Italian steamer Valentin Coda signalled it is sinking.

Paris, Jan. 14.—Six persons have lost their lives in the storm which is sweeping France.

Two women were buried when a house they occupied in Palmue collapsed during the hurricane.

Numerous SOS calls have been picked up by the Dunkirk radio station. The Italian steamer Valentin Coda signalled it is sinking.

BATTLE CREEK, NEB., FIGHTS BIG FIRE

Battle Creek, Neb., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Volunteer firemen and citizens hampered by a 40-mile an hour gale and a blizzard, fought flames which threatened to destroy the major business buildings of this town this afternoon. A call for aid was sent to nearby towns.

The flames gutted the Valley bank building and spread to adjacent stores while a crowd fought both fire and bitter cold.

Battle Creek's population numbers about 750 persons.

WAR DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATION BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—The war department appropriation bill, providing $454,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, was passed today by the house.

The measure increases by more than $6,000,000 the appropriation for military activities of the department.

The case involves the shooting to death by coast guards of three alleged rum smugglers aboard the notorious rum runner Black Duck at the mouth of Narragansett Bay on Dec. 29.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS MAY HAVE TO CLOSE THEIR DOORS

CANNOT BEG OR BORROW SUFFICIENT MONEY TO KEEP INSTITUTIONS GOING

CLOSING COMES AS POSSIBILITY DURING WRANGLING OVER FINANCIAL TANGLE

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—School children of the second largest city in the United States probably will find public school doors locked against them on Feb. 1 because Chicago cannot beg or borrow enough money to keep its elementary educational institutions going.

Closing of the schools, mentioned as a dire possibility many times during the wrangling over the city's financial tangle, appeared a probability today as the school board was deadlocked over its 1930 budget and the mayor and city council were so busy squabbling over the municipal budget they had no time to consider ways to relieve the schools.

H. Wallace Daldwell, president of the school board, was pessimistic.

"Payrolls amounting to $2,555,000 will have to be met this month and we had only $100,000 to pay them."

The city council majority faction forced through its "economy budget" last night despite the fact over two-thirds of its items have been vetoed

POSSE OF 50 IS CLOSING IN ON 2 VICIOUS BANDITS

GUNMEN ACCOMPANIED BY WOMAN TAKE SHELTER NEAR CHANDLER, ARIZ.

RUNNING GUN BATTLE IN FLORINCE, WHERE DEPUTY WAS KIDNAPED

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—In the heavy brush land near the junction of the San Pedro and Santa Cruz rivers, a posse of 50 men was closing in slowly today on two bandits, who already have wounded two peace officers.

The gunmen, accompanied by a woman, were believed to have taken shelter in the section after they passed through Chandler near here, sending volley after volley of bullets at authorities who attempted to stop them.

Deputy Lee White was cut down by the heavy gunfire and was removed to a hospital where his wounds were considered serious.

The other officer hurt was Joe Chapman, who either was thrown or leaped from the bandit car as it sped down the main street of Chandler.

A report was made to Sheriff C. L. Wright that the trio temporarily had eluded the posse and had moved to a position in the brush near Laveen, a small desert settlement.

A cordon still was kept around the river junction but Indian trackers and others were sent to the position near Laveen.

The trio had been taken into custody as suspicious characters at Florin yesterday afternoon, when one of the men drew a revolver and forced a deputy into an automobile. They then whisked the deputy away toward Chandler. At Chandler, Chapman the kidnapped deputy, leaped from the automobile during an exchange of shots with Chandler authorities.

by Mayor William Hale Thompson. The mayor likely will veto the police, fire, health, street cleaning and other essential department appropriations again as being insufficient. Attempts at compromise were frequent and futile.

PLANE LOST IN ALTITUDE TEST FOUND WRECKED

BODIES OF AVIATORS, MARRA AND KIRKPATRICK, LAY NEAR MONOPLANE

GAMEKEEPER DISCOVERS AIRPLANE, FIRE DAMAGED, NEAR AMSTON, CONN.

Amston, Conn., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—The lost Fairchild monoplane in which Daniel Marra and William Kirkpatrick set out on an altitude test from Farmingdale, Long Island, last Friday, was found wrecked here today.

The bodies of the two aviators were near the ship, which was badly damaged by fire.

The plane was discovered in the woods near Amston lake by Fred Rowley, a gamekeeper.

The locality where the fog-blinded fliers died had been the graveyard of two airmail pilots within the last three years, Daniel Kline and Ned Carrington.

Search had been conducted in this heavily-wooded and sparsely settled country since reports had been received of persons who heard the drone of the lost plane's motor. These were traced to Ashford, near here.

TOLL OF DEATH, SUFFERING AND PROPERTY DAMAGE

THREATEN TO ASSUME DISASTROUS PROPORTIONS IN MANY PLACES

GRAVEST MENACE IS ROARING WATERS IN THE MISSISSIPPI VALLEY

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Storms and floods lashed widely separated portions of the nation today, carrying the toll of death, suffering and property damage to foreboding levels and threatening to assume disaster proportions in many places.

The gravest menace was in the roaring waters of streams and rivers in the Mississippi Valley tributary to the Mississippi. Swollen by heavy and repeated rains and the runaway waters from snow-blanketed northern states, rivers flung levees aside and poured over thousands of acres of agricultural lands. Hundreds of were homeless and being sheltered in communities above the clutch of the flood.

The far west from the Sierra Nevada to the Rocky Mountains was a desert of snow.

Scores of persons were marooned and several were lost in the storm-harassed territory.

Some 60 had been killed as a result of the storm since it began last week. Hope had waned for Maury Graham, Western Air Express air mail pilot unreported since he took off in a snow storm Friday from Las Vegas, Nev., on a flight to Salt Lake City, Utah. Search for him was being conducted both by air and land.

Leonard Kip Rhineland, wealthy New Yorker, and three companions still were marooned in his cabin at Charleston Park, near Las Vegas, Nev.

Amateur mountain climbers, tourists and natives of the "Painted Mountain" sections of the southwest were trapped in cabins and shelter stations, facing the peril of freezing and starvation while searching parties and rescue crews sought to reach them.

President-elect Ortiz Rubio of Mexico and his party were cut off from outside communication at Grand Canyon, Ariz.

More than 200 families in western Tennessee had fled before the rush of angry water and 100 families between Cairo, Ill., and Hickman Bluffs, Ky., had been driven from their homes in the lowlands.

The worst flood crisis since the disaster of 1913 confronted Indiana. The Wabasha river at Vincennes was 11 feet above flood stage and still rising. A break in the levee at that point would put half the city under four feet of water.

A break in a levee above Vincennes, Ind., brought relief to that flood sector today but it promised to be only temporary. More rain during the night along the Wabasha probably will send the river back to the 1913 level reached yesterday.

The break occurred between Emileon and Oaktown and inundated 20,000 acres of land. Flood waters at Vincennes, however, continued to pour over a new protecting wall and attacked a fresh earth barrier hastily thrown up.

Another break occurred near Clinton and 1,300 acres were submerged, again bringing temporary relief along the river. Overnight rains, however, promised to undo the relief brought by the breaks.

Paris, Jan. 14.—Six persons have lost their lives in the storm which is sweeping France.

Two women were buried when a house they occupied in Falmue collapsed during the hurricane.

BATTLE CREEK, NEB., FIGHTS BIG FIRE

Battle Creek, Neb., Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—Volunteer firemen and citizens hampered by a 40-mile an hour gale and a blizzard, fought flames which threatened to destroy the major business buildings of this town this afternoon. A call for aid was sent to nearby towns.

The flames gutted the Valley bank building and spread to adjacent stores while a crowd fought both fire and bitter cold.

Battle Creek's population numbers about 750 persons.

The measure increases by more than $6,000,000 the appropriation for military activities of the department.

NATURAL 100% BRAN IS BEST, SAY DOCTORS

Over 90% of Physicians' Group Favor This Bran for Constipation

Not long ago the following question was asked of ten thousand doctors:

"Do you believe that raw natural 100% bran is the best form of bran for the relief of constipation?"

93% of the answers were "Yes."

Nothing could be more valuable than such advice as this to those who are constantly troubled by atonic constipation, a wide-spread disease—bowel irregularity resulting from intestinal sluggishness.

These doctors say "natural 100% bran." Your grocer has it—Pillsbury's Bran, natural 100% bran, nothing added, nothing taken away.

Pillsbury's Bran is rough—like a most valuable form—it goes to the root of the trouble, and relieves it naturally.

Modern soft diet causes irregular bowel movements—or movements that are regular, but not complete. Decayed material remains in the system—causing headaches, lassitude, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, lowered vitality, and increased susceptibility to more serious disease.

Eat Pillsbury's Bran in some way every day. You can use it to prepare many delicious foods—muffins, teacakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc.—the recipes are on the Pillsbury package.

You can sprinkle it over salads, or mix it with cereals. You can eat it as it comes from the package, with cream and sugar. No matter how you eat Pillsbury's Bran, you may be sure you're getting the right kind—natural 100% bran, overwhelmingly preferred by doctors. Your grocer has it—start tomorrow.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain the graceful, modern figure with its captivating curves.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. Law Enforcement as Applied to Prohibition

PRESIDENT HOOVER's law enforcement commission, after surveying the status of prohibition enforcement the past seven months, has made a report to congress and has come to the conclusion that there are a "staggering number" of "local points of infection."

The commission advised congress, "if on no other grounds than to give the law a fair trial," to mend our weak spots in prohibition enforcement by adopting four measures:

Transfer the investigation of prohibition violations and the preparation of cases against offenders from the treasury to the justice department, and that suggestion will probably be the first to be adopted by congress.

Codify all federal prohibition legislation.
Make padlock injunctions more effective.

Relieve congestion in the federal courts by one of three expedients; preferably by prosecuting "casual or slight" violations without indictment with penalty for such violations limited to $500 fine or six months in jail, which would require authorizing legislation by congress.

Delving into the social and political background of prohibition observance, the commission said: "It is impossible to set off observance of the prohibition act from the large question of the views and habits of the American people with respect to private judgment as to statutes and regulations affecting their conduct."

"To reach conclusions of any value, we must go deep into questions of public opinion and the criminal law. We must look into the several factors in the attitude of the people both generally and in particular localities, towards laws in general and toward specific regulations."

Ten Good Rules for Safe Driving

A BULLETIN of the State Highway Department gives 10 very good rules for safe driving and it will benefit any driver to read them. The best driver in the world becomes potentially dangerous when he grows careless and takes chances. The following, offered by an automobile club official, are good for any time of the year, and any year:

Be courteous. Never race for a crossing or position on the road because you have the right of way.

Never travel at a rate of speed that will make it impossible to bring the car to a stop in a reasonable distance.

Never speed upon a hill or on curves where there is not clear vision ahead.

Keep your eyes on the road and do not talk with persons in the back seat while driving.

Study traffic rules and obey them. You may not agree that they are all sound, but they benefit the majority.

Study ways of avoiding congested streets and you will find that time can be saved with greater driving safety.

Remain a safe distance behind the car ahead, especially on heavy traveled highways.

Always be sure that the brakes of your car, windshield wiper and other safety appliances are ready to function.

When driving in congested areas be sure that there is plenty of gasoline in the tank. It will save yourself and other motorists delays and annoyance.

Always give fellow motorists a "break" and you will be surprised at the number you get.

Value of Publicity

IN his salary argument with Babe Ruth, Col. Jacob Ruppert reminded the baseball star that publicity in the sport pages had been a big factor in making possible his $70,000 salary.

If Ruth quits the diamond, he leaves the sport page, slides out of print and with it goes Ruth's high estimate of his own worth. The Babe has been getting more pay than the President of the United States and has a craving for more.

At the age of 36 the average athlete has about reached the end of such a career. He cannot expect to better records and there is always the dread possibility of one's legs giving out.

Ruth has been well paid in the past and cannot consistently hope for more. Colonel Ruppert is exercising good horse sense in calling for an annual contract instead of a three-year term.

Icy, Snow Covered Roads

THE most treacherous footing these days is a thin sheet of loose snow on an icy base and that affects the pedestrian as well as the motorist.

Many people these days are driving without chains and trusting to car momentum to carry them through drifts or over slippery places. Brakes are of no account whatever when the skidding starts and the car takes the bit in its teeth and heads for the open places.

That's the time when the driver and the passengers get that "gone" feeling in the pit of the stomach. There isn't time even to cry out. The skid and the crash comes almost simultaneously.

American Apples Win Favor

THE coloring of American apples and their size are factors which stimulate their sale on European markets, according to W. Rigge, former professor at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, who just has completed an extensive survey in the Yakima Valley along the lines of the Northern Pacific railway. It is from this area that the famous table apples are obtained and shipped all over the world. Professor Rigge said that Yakima apples are favorites in Switzerland although prices are high.

ONCE in a while one strikes a cynical note in Capper's Weekly. The other day it made a reference to a banquet and explained it in the following terms: "A banquet, we believe, is a showy sort of meal where the speaker eats a lot of food he doesn't want, and then proceeds to talk about something he doesn't understand to a crowd of people who don't care to hear him."

C. A. TOWNLEY, who failed in a political movement and also failed to strike oil in the Dakotas, is again showing an active interest in politics, so it is rumored in Fargo.

DULUTH is sponsoring a winter sports program extending from February 9 to 15.

VOLUME 8

BRAINERD HIGH SCHOOL, TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1930

Number 18

B. H. S. LOSES TO
CROSBY-IRONTON
QUINT, 26 TO 17

BRAINERD AHEAD AT THE HALF
TIME, 11-10; C-I RALLY
BRINGS WIN

Although displaying a marked improvement over the Bemidji tilt, the Blue and White eagles, nevertheless, suffered its second consecutive defeat by losing to Crosby-Ironton, 26 to 17. This leaves the locals with one conference loss and also a win, having beat Pine River in the opening contest. The double-header this weekend will give the team a good chance of evening up matters, that is "if" progress is made as rapidly as before. Staples, there on Friday night, and Aitkin here the following evening will constitute the opposition to be met with.

The range aggregation presented an outfit that possessed a keen eye for the hoop, having made six long shots in a row and coupled with good teamwork, functioned as if in tournament play to win the struggle. As for the locals, they didn't seem to connect until well in the second quarter and as a result the score at half-time stood 11 to 10 in their favor. With Krueger leading the scoring attack, the rangers brought the figures 21 to 11 at the end of the third quarter, this time in C-I's favor. It was enough of an advantage to finish the game with points to spare as the struggle ended with Brainerd still fighting gamely.

For Brainerd E. Foster had a good scoring night, having accounted for four field goals while Guin, Hautala and B. Foster had uncanny luck in the way of making points and also at some stages of the game were off the style of play of which they are capable. Clausen played his same steady style. Krueger was the big gun of Crosby offense, having sunk seven shots to lead for the evening's individual scoring, while Middleton, Perpitch, Onstrom and Olson all gave creditable showings.

Free throw shooting and the perfection of a fast breaking combination are the problems being dealt with for the first part of the week with a gradual easing up in preparation for the coming double-header this weekend.

The line-ups:
Brainerd (17)—Hautala, E. Foster, forwards; Guin, center; B. Foster, Clausen, Hoffbauer, Schuetz, guards.
Crosby-Ironton (26)—Perpitch, Onstrom, Petrabor, forwards; Krueger, center; Middleton, Olson, and Keeler, guards.
Referee—Holzer, Moorhead.

Scholastic Quizzes to Review League Question

The fourth national competitive examination on the League of Nations for high school students is to be held Friday, March 14, 1930 in the local high school.

Students from any high school in the United States may compete for the prizes offered. Questions will be based on "A Ten Year Review of the League of Nations" published by the League of Nations Association.

Any student so desiring may take the National Competitive Examination, the teachers selecting them from the best two papers.

The first national prize will be a trip to Europe. Second and third prizes of $100 and $50 will also be awarded and in addition there are to be local prizes offered in some cities and states.

The contest will be well worth any student's time for the benefits derived will be 100 percent beneficial to winners. The trip to Europe includes in addition to visit many important cities, a few days stay in Geneva which suggests ample opportunity for making the acquaintance of many students from other lands and for studying the League of Nations at first hand.

SENIORS HEAR PROF.
CLARK OF CARLETON

Through the courtesy of the Brainerd Musical Club the Seniors of the high school had the opportunity of hearing Prof. Keith Clark of Carleton College on the subject of Canadian-American relations on Monday evening of last week.

Prof. Clark is well versed on international affairs and she outlined the different negotiations between Great Britain and the United States, pertaining to the boundary line between Canada and the United States.

Miss Clark has spent a great deal of time studying international conditions and during the war she was abroad much of the time. She just recently returned from New York where she attended the reception for Premier MacDonald.

The Seniors wish to express their appreciation to the Musical Club for this exceptional opportunity.

REBOUNDS

The following are the various scores at different periods of the game last Friday: First period—Brd-3; C-I-4. Half-time—Brd-11; C-I-10. Third quarter—Brd-11; C-I-21. Final—Brd-17; C-I-26.

As far as vocal backing was concerned nothing was overlooked as Halley Clarkson and Warren Golemboski lead the unified cheering which was heard when he asked for and some to cheer.

By the way, the officiating was better than past probably it broke the course record but anyway Mr. Holzer of Moorhead certainly handled the whistle in a manner which must be commented.

If a good average in free throwing is 2 out of 3; it appears evident that this section of the game will have to be brushed up a bit. Further yet a thorough dry cleaning should remedy matters.

A new addition to the squad is in the personage of Vernon Marshall who is starting in again after his sick spell. Although Jerry Halverson is on the road to complete recovery, he may not be in uniform for several days.

Some desperate barber who saw his team go down to defeat twice in a row, stated if they lost this coming week end he would have to get the shot gun out. We hope he didn't say anything about his favorite straight edge razor.

MODEL HOME TOPS LIST
OF SCHOOL'S NOVELTIES

One of the recently discovered wonders of the new school is the model house which Miss Filk's Home Economics classes are to use to experiment in. It's a perfect copy of the interior of a small bungalow, with front room, dining room, bed room and closet. The kitchen is the domestic science kitchen. The front room is rather long, with a beamed ceiling and tan plastered walls. There are two chandeliers, the kind most proper for such a room, and several floor plugs for bridge and table lamps. The dining room, about half the length of the living room is joined to the latter by an arched doorway. There are electric candle fixtures in this room, as well as two or three floor plugs. The bedroom is right next to the dining room, and it also opens into the living room. The rooms have French windows that really open.

The house isn't furnished yet, but it will be, and the sewing classes will make curtains and drapes and such things to decorate the rooms. Cooking classes will probably serve lunches there.

The idea has been met with much enthusiasm—in fact, Miss Filk has found that some of the boys wish to join her classes so they may have a part in the beautifying of the little home!

SCHOLASTIC STANDARD
SET FOR JUNIOR HI-Y

A scholastic standing in school was discussed as being a requirement for the members of the club at their weekly meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. last Thursday night.

Mr. Melby advised the club to vote for the requirement because he said that to join most college or university organizations a student must have a B or C average. Mr. Peterson said that if the measure was passed it would raise the club's standard to a higher level.

A nominating committee consisting of James Wieland, chairman, Robert Crust, John Felson, and Robert Ebert was named by the president. They are expected to have nominees chosen so that the election may be held by the next meeting.

Exam Schedule

Christmas holidays, a week of school, one busy week, and then, dropped right in the middle of next week comes semester exams! Here's the schedule:

Wednesday—first period classes, from 8:30-10:05; second period classes from 10:10-11:45; third period classes from 1:15-2:50; fourth period classes from 2:55-4:30.

Thursday—fifth period classes from 8:30-10:05; sixth period classes from 10:10-11:45; seventh period classes from 1:15-2:50.

The students are requested to be in the building only while they are taking exams.

Begging Your Pardon

We wish to acknowledge the presence and the good playing of the Brainerd Ladies band, under the direction of Miss Esther Bentley who substituted for Mrs. Winifred Kronk-Zibell at the Brainerd-Bemidji basketball game. We neglected to mention this fact in our last week's account for which we are sorry.

ALICE PETERSON GETS
LETTER FROM NORWAY

Alice Peterson has received the following interesting letter from a friend in Norway.

Dear Alice!
I have heard very much about my family in America, so I will write you a letter. I cannot write English very good, but I will try to do as well as I can. In school I have learnt some English and German. I go by the last class in (Middelsskolen). I think that is something like your high school. I am going to take my examination in the summer 1930. I went seven years at the public school, and two years at the Middle school. It takes three years, but I just went two, because I have learnt some German and Mathematics before.

My mother says that you are of the same age as I, and I will be glad to have an American friend. I am the one mother had been writing about, who plays violin, and I just love it. I have played since I was seven years old, and I could not think to be without it. I have played at a Koncert in (Logens store Sal) one of the greatest halls in Oslo, a Romance of Beethoven together with another friend who played the piano.

I have heard you are very interested in artwork, and so am I, but I have not very much time to it. I and my sister have been painting some doyleys in (Brokademaling) and it is very beautiful. We put first some kind of paint round the drawing, and then we put some kind of gilt or something like small beads on the paint. I don't know if you know how if not I will send you something sometimes. Then we are making something in leather, bags, purses and different things. It is very pretty.

Christmas has just passed by and we have had nice holidays. Christmas Eve we had some Children's meeting at 4 o'clock at church and then I played "Handels Largo" beside the harmonium. When we got home, we eat our supper, and carried in the Christmas tree, and got our Christmas presents.

My mother sends the best regards to your mother, with thanks for foto (photo) and letter. I hope you excuse my writing. I know my English is not very good, but I hope you will understand it. I will close with the wish that you will answer my letter.

Much love

MID-MORNING PERIOD
REPLACES HALF HOUR

"Too much work makes Jack a dull boy," as the old philosophical saying goes, contains every element of truth; and so it develops that teachers and students alike confirm the statement and seek pleasure in diverging now and then from the paths of learning.

Instead of the half hour study period the first thing in the morning which was in effect before the old school burned, 20 minutes at the end of the second period are now used for the same purpose except on days when the strain becomes too great and the process mentioned above commences.

Thus it happened that on Wednesday of last week the students gathered in the magnificent new auditorium and after a few brief announcements by Miss Tornstrom, were led by Miss O'Brien in 20 minutes of song.

On Friday at the same time another assembly was called, in the gym this time, to arouse enthusiasm for the game with Crosby-Ironton. This inspiration meeting there dawned that which later will undoubtedly develop into one of the largest and best organized rooting squads in the district. The student body responded vigorously to the pleas of the coach and cheer leaders and the enthusiasm shown presented a bright outlook for Brainerd's 1930 sport season.

DEDICATION EXERCISES
TO TAKE PLACE JAN. 28

With Governor Christianson as principal speaker the dedication exercises of the new high school promise to be a highlight of the season. These exercises in charge of Dr. George Ribbel will be held in the new auditorium, January 28.

John McConnell, head of the state department of education, and Robert Crust, president of the school board, are also scheduled to speak. The musical numbers on the program will be given by the Brainerd Choral club and the high school orchestra.

Students are not expected to attend these exercises as the opportunity may be given them to hear the governor in the afternoon.

Further details will be given in later Brainerdian issues.

COACH KASCH FORMS
THREE CAGE SQUADS

Coach Kasch has completed plans for the formation of three separate basketball squads. The A squad includes the ten men on the first team and 17 others who have shown up as well as possible prospects for the team.

The B squad consists of promising material for future teams. The C squad is made up of those who wish to take up basketball for recreation only or for those who have just taken up the sport.

Mr. Kasch is planning several games for the second team which will probably be played as preliminaries to the regular attractions. The schedule for the seconds will be announced as soon as arrangements have been completed with the other teams.

NOTICE

It is altogether fitting and proper that the adviser of this weekly paper be put into print in this edition to inform the student body and the general public that the Brainerdian staff was solely responsible for the last issue of the Brainerdian, January 7. Ordinarily the usual five columns do not appear immediately after a vacation but the difficulties encountered in our Christmas edition aroused the spirit of determination found in all staff members, who gladly gave their time and energy toward making the last number possible.

The Adviser.

SELECTIONS MADE
IN DRAMATIC AND
HUMOROUS TRYOUTS

NO ELIMINATION MADE IN ORATORICAL GROUP BECAUSE OF FEW ENTRIES

Several weeks ago an opportunity was given to every high school student to prove his or her ability in declaiming. Since that time, much practicing has been done, and as a result of this practice, coupled with excellent coaching, a fine group of contestants has been organized.

The first elimination among those doing dramatic work was done last Wednesday in the auditorium. Each contestant, after receiving an individual hearing, was judged by the coaches along with Miss Lord, Miss Ferrarok and Miss Laipple. Much difficulty was recognized in choosing the ten people who displayed the most talent. The following people will continue in the contest as a result of the first preliminary tryouts: Marjorie Forsberg, Mildred Johnson, Janet Kampmann, Alyce Little, Viola Murphy, Ardele Persson, Helen Sheets, Lena Shobe, Bernice Steinfield, Marcelle Workman. Further elimination before the local contest will be done on January 20.

Last Thursday a similar exercise was carried out in the humorous division. Judges besides the coaches were Mr. LaMeter, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Penrose. The following people, also subject to elimination, were selected as the six most promising humorists: Elizabeth Irvine, Elaine Cook, Howard Zander, Don Edstrom, Irja Hautala and Virginia Wilson.

Because of wilful withdrawals, there are at the present time only six people who will compete in the oratorical contest. No elimination has yet been found necessary, although some may be done later. The orator are Dwight Curo, Richard Ebert, Stewart Patterson, Zane Smith, Donald Nelson and Adolf Erickson.

On February 3, the local dramatic program will be given in the new auditorium at 7:45.

The dramatic representatives for B. H. S. will be selected at this time and will compete in the sub-district contest to be held soon. The following Brainerd residents have been asked to judge the contestants: Mrs. H. I. Cohen, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. A. C. Weber and Miss Louise Barrett.

Other local residents will act as judges in the humorous and oratorical divisions. Dates for tryouts and public programs in these groups will be decided upon soon.

CLASS IN JOURNALISM
TO BE CONDUCTED

Readers of the Brainerdian, not including the high school students, may not know the purpose of the weekly page edited by (to show) the parents what the students are doing in school and to help the young writers along journalistic lines.

Miss Herwig, Brainerdian adviser, having instructed the staff for the last year and a half, thinks that the editor and reporters are now capable of publishing their own paper with a minimum amount of supervision.

Fifteen books, "Elements of Journalism" by Mary J. Wrinn, have been obtained for the use of the student writers. The state department of education does not permit a regular class of journalism in this high school, and so this extra class is the only means available. The class is open to everyone, but only those especially interested and who will come regularly will have books.

At present there are 20 staff members and ten underwriters. All Freshmen and Sophomores interested in writing for the Brainerdian, and wishing to become underwriters, should see David Weber.

A point system is being planned for all staff members to increase the quality of their writing.

HI-Y BUSINESS MEETING
HELD TO DISCUSS PLANS

Promptly at 7:15 last Wednesday night the Senior Hi-Y club met for the purpose of discussing business that had been left over from the holidays. The question concerning collecting of money for the club was stressed very urgently and the boys were told in no uncertain words that the money from the pencil sale must be turned in very soon.

The club boys also talked over a prospective social party in connection with the Tri-Hi Club. This they expect to be a gala event and the outstanding feature of the Senior Hi-Y year. Preparations for this will be further decided at the supper meeting this week. The committee was appointed for this to take part of the necessary eating part.

Last but not least in the line of business the boys found out that they were elected to serve at the joint meeting of all the Y. M. C. A. clubs which take place the latter part of this month. The boys guarantee a good meal and it is rumored that Mr. Petersop is to wait on tables.

Law Enforcement as Applied to Prohibition

PRESIDENT HOOVER's law enforcement commission, after surveying the status of prohibition enforcement the past seven months, has made a report to congress and has come to the conclusion that there are a "staggering number" of "local points of infection."

The commission advised congress, "if on no other grounds than to give the law a fair trial," to mend our weak spots in prohibition enforcement by adopting four measures:

Transfer the investigation of prohibition violations and the preparation of cases against offenders from the treasury to the justice department, and that suggestion will probably be the first to be adopted by congress.

Codify all federal prohibition legislation.

Make padlock injunctions more effective.

Relieve congestion in the federal courts by one of three expedients; preferably by prosecuting "casual or slight" violations without indictment with penalty for such violations limited to $500 fine or six months in jail, which would require authorizing legislation by congress.

Delving into the social and political background of prohibition observance, the commission said: "It is impossible to set off observance of the prohibition act from the large question of the views and habits of the American people with respect to private judgment as to statutes and regulations affecting their conduct."

"To reach conclusions of any value, we must go deep into questions of public opinion and the criminal law. We must look into the several factors in the attitude of the people both generally and in particular localities, towards laws in general and toward specific regulations."

Ten Good Rules for Safe Driving

A BULLETIN of the State Highway Department gives 10 very good rules for safe driving and it will benefit any driver to read them. The best driver in the world becomes potentially dangerous when he grows careless and takes chances. The following, offered by an automobile club official, are good for any time of the year, and any year:

Be courteous. Never race for a crossing or position on the road because you have the right of way.

Never travel at a rate of speed that will make it impossible to bring the car to a stop in a reasonable distance.

Never speed upon a hill or on curves where there is not clear vision ahead.

Keep your eyes on the road and do not talk with persons in the back seat while driving.

Study traffic rules and obey them. You may not agree that they are all sound, but they benefit the majority.

Study ways of avoiding congested streets and you will find that time can be saved with greater driving safety.

Remain a safe distance behind the car ahead, especially on heavy traveled highways.

Always be sure that the brakes of your car, windshield wiper and other safety appliances are ready to function.

When driving in congested areas be sure that there is plenty of gasoline in the tank. It will save yourself and other motorists delays and annoyance.

Always give fellow motorists a "break" and you will be surprised at the number you get.

Value of Publicity

IN his salary argument with Babe Ruth, Col. Jacob Rupert reminded the baseball star that publicity in the sport pages had been a big factor in making possible his $70,000 salary.

If Ruth quits the diamond, he leaves the sport page, slides out of print and with it goes Ruth's high estimate of his own worth. The Babe has been getting more pay than the President of the United States and has a craving for more.

At the age of 36 the average athlete has about reached the end of such a career. He cannot expect to better records and there is always the dread possibility of one's legs giving out.

Ruth has been well paid in the past and cannot consistently hope for more. Colonel Rupert is exercising good horse sense in calling for an annual contract instead of a three-year term.

Ice, Snow Covered Roads

THE most treacherous footing these days is a thin sheet of loose snow on an icy base and that affects the pedestrian as well as the motorist.

Many people these days are driving without chains and trusting to car momentum to carry them through drifts or over slippery places. Brakes are of no account whatever when the skidding starts and the car takes the bit in its teeth and heads for the open places.

That's the time when the driver and the passengers get that "gone" feeling in the pit of the stomach. There isn't time even to cry out. The skid and the crash comes almost simultaneously.

American Apples Win Favor

THE coloring of American apples and their size are factors which stimulate their sale on European markets, according to W. Rigge, former professor at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, who just has completed an extensive survey in the Yakima Valley along the lines of the Northern Pacific railway. It is from this area that the famous table apples are obtained and shipped all over the world. Professor Rigge said that Yakima apples are favorites in Switzerland although prices are high.

ONCE in a while one strikes a cynical note in Capper's Weekly. The other day it made a reference to a banquet and explained it in the following terms: "A banquet, we believe, is a showy sort of meal where the speaker eats a lot of food he doesn't want, and then proceeds to talk about something he doesn't understand to a crowd of people who don't care to hear him."

C. A. TOWNLEY, who failed in a political movement and also failed to strike oil in the Dakotas, is again showing an active interest in politics, so it is rumored in Fargo.

DULUTH is sponsoring a winter sports program extending from February 9 to 15.

B. H. S. LOSES TO
CROSBY-IRONTON
QUINT, 26 TO 17

BRAINERD AHEAD AT THE HALF
TIME, 11-10; C-I RALLY
BRINGS WIN

Although displaying a marked improvement over the Bemidji tilt, the Blue and White eagles, nevertheless, suffered its second consecutive defeat by losing to Crosby-Ironton, 26 to 17. This leaves the locals with one conference loss and also a win, having beat Pine River in the opening contest. The double-header this weekend will give the team a good chance of evening up matters, that is "if" progress is made as rapidly as before. Staples, there on Friday night, and Aitkin here the following evening will constitute the opposition to be met with.

The range aggregation presented an outfit that possessed a keen eye for the hoop, having made six long shots in a row and coupled with good teamwork, functioned as if in tournament play to win the struggle.

As for the locals, they didn't seem to connect until well in the second quarter and as a result the score at half-time stood 11 to 10 in their favor. With Krueger leading the scoring attack, the rangers brought the figures 21 to 11 at the end of the third quarter, this time in C-I's favor. It was enough of an advantage to finish the game with points to spare as the struggle ended with Brainerd still fighting gamely.

For Brainerd E. Foster had a good scoring night, having accounted for four field goals while Guin, Hautala and B. Foster had unguessed luck in the way of making points and also at some stages of the game were off the style of play of which they are capable. Clausen played his same steady style. Krueger was the big gun of Crosby offense, having sunk seven shots to lead for the evening's individual scoring, while Middleton, Perlich, Onstrom and Olson all gave creditable showings.

Free throw shooting and the perfection of a fast breaking combination are the problems being dealt with for the first part of the week with a gradual easing up in preparation for the coming double-header this weekend.

The line-ups:
Brainerd (7)—Hautala, E. Foster, Guin, center; B. Foster, Krueger, Hoffbauer, Schuetz, guards.
Crosby-Ironton (26)—Perlich, Onstrom, Petrabor, forwards; Krueger, center; Middleton, Olson, and Keeler, guards.
Referee—Holzer, Moorhead.

Scholastic Quizzes to

Review League Question

The fourth national competitive examination on the League of Nations for high school students is to be held Friday, March 14, 1930 in the local high school.

Students from any high school in the United States may compete for the prizes offered. Questions will be based on "A Ten Year Review of the League of Nations" published by the League of Nations Association.

Any student so desiring may take the National Competitive Examination, the teachers selecting them from the best two papers.

The first national prize will be a trip to Europe. Second and third prizes of $100 and $50 will also be awarded and in addition there are to be local prizes offered in some cities and states.

The contest will be well worth any student's time for the benefit derived will be 100 percent beneficial to winners. The trip to Europe includes in addition to visit many important cities, a few days stay in Geneva which suggests ample opportunity for making the acquaintance of many students from other lands and for studying the League of Nations at first hand.

SENIORS HEAR PROF.

CLARK OF CARLETON

Through the courtesy of the Brainerd Musical club the Seniors of the high school had the opportunity of hearing Prof. Keith Clark of Carleton College on the subject of Canadian-American relations on Monday evening of last week.

Prof. Clark is well versed on international affairs and she outlined the different negotiations between Great Britain and the United States, pertaining to the boundary line between Canada and the United States.

Miss Clark has spent a great deal of time studying international conditions and during the war she was abroad much of the time. She just recently returned from New York where she attended the reception for Premier MacDonald.

The Seniors wish to express their appreciation to the Musical club for this exceptional opportunity.

REBOUNDS

The following are the various scores at different periods of the game last Friday: First period—Brd-3; C-I-4. Half-time—Brd-11; C-I-10. Third quarter—Brd-11; C-I-21. Final—Brd-17; C-I-26.

As far as vocal backing was concerned nothing was overlooked as Hallett Clarkson and Warren Golemboski lead the unified cheering which was heard from the bleachers and some to 100.

By the way, the officiating was better than par, probably it broke the course record but anyway Mr. Holzer of Moorhead certainly handled the whistle in a manner which must be commented.

If a good average in free throwing is 2 out of 3; it appears evident that this section of the game will have to be brushed up a bit. Further yet a thorough dry cleaning should remedy matters.

A new addition to the squad is in the personage of Vernon Marshall who is starting in again after his sick spell. Although Jerry Halverson is on the road to complete recovery, he may not be in uniform for several days.

Some desperate barber who saw his team go down to defeat twice in a row, stated if they lost this coming week end he would have to get the shot gun out. We hope he didn't say anything about his favorite straight edge razor.

MODEL HOME TOPS LIST
OF SCHOOL'S NOVELTIES

One of the recently discovered wonders of the new school is the model house which Miss Filk's Home Economics classes are to use to experiment in. It's a perfect copy of the interior of a small bungalow, with front room, dining room, bed room and closet. The kitchen is the domestic science kitchen. The front room is rather long, with a beamed ceiling and plastered walls. There are two chandeliers, the kind most proper for such a room, and several floor plugs for bridge and table lamps. The dining room, about half the length of the living room is joined to the latter by an arched doorway. There are electric candle fixtures in this room, as well as two or three floor plugs. The bedroom is right next to the dining room, and it also opens into the living room. The rooms have French windows that really open.

The house isn't furnished yet, but it will be, and the sewing classes will make curtains and drapes and such things to decorate the rooms. Cooking classes will probably serve lunches there.

The idea has been met with much enthusiasm—in fact, Miss Filk has found that some of the boys wish to join her classes so they may have a part in the beautifying of the little home!

SCHOLASTIC STANDARD
SET FOR JUNIOR HI-Y

A scholastic standing in school was discussed as being a requirement for admittance into Junior Hi-Y by the members of the club at their weekly meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. last Thursday night.

Mr. Melby advised the club to vote for the requirement because he said that to join most college or university organizations a student must have a B or C average. Mr. Peterson said that if the measure was passed it would raise the club's standard to a higher level.

A nominating committee consisting of James Wieland, chairman, Robert Crust, John Felsner and Robert Ebert was named by the president. They are expected to have nominees chosen so that the election may be held by the next meeting.

Exam Schedule

Christmas holidays, a week of school, one busy week, and then, dropped right in the middle of next week comes semester exams! Here's the schedule:

Wednesday—first period classes, from 8:30-10:05; second period classes from 10:10-11:45; third period classes from 1:15-2:50; fourth period classes from 2:55-4:30.

Thursday—fifth period classes from 8:30-10:05; sixth period classes from 10:10-11:45; seventh period classes from 1:15-2:50.

The students are requested to be in the building only while they are taking exams.

Begging Your Pardon

We wish to acknowledge the presence and the good playing of the Brainerd Ladies band, under the direction of Miss Esther Bentley who substituted for Mrs. Winnifred Kronk Zibell at the Brainerd-Bemidji basketball game. We neglected to mention this fact in our last week's account for which we are sorry.

Coach Kasch has completed plans for the formation of three separate basketball squads. The A squad includes the ten men on the first team and 17 others who have shown up well as possible prospects for the team.

The B squad consists of promising material for future teams. The C squad is made up of those who wish to take up basketball for recreation only or for those who have just taken up the sport.

Mr. Kasch is planning several games for the second team which will probably be played as preliminaries to the regular attractions. The schedule for the seconds will be announced as soon as arrangements have been completed with the other teams.

NOTICE

It is altogether fitting and proper that the adviser of this weekly brought into print in this edition to inform the student body and the general public that the Brainerdian staff was solely responsible for the last issue of the Brainerdian, January 7. Ordinarily the usual five columns do not appear immediately after a vacation but the difficulties encountered in our Christmas edition aroused the spirit of determination found in all staff members, who gladly gave their time and energy toward making the last number possible.

SELECTIONS MADE IN DRAMATIC AND
HUMOROUS TRYOUTS

NO ELIMINATION MADE IN ORATORICAL GROUP BECAUSE OF FEW ENTRIES

Several weeks ago an opportunity was given to every high school student to prove his or her ability in declaiming. Since that time, much practicing has been done, and as a result of this practice, coupled with excellent coaching, a fine group of contestants has been organized.

The first elimination among those doing dramatic work was done last Wednesday in the auditorium. Each contestant, after receiving an individual hearing, was judged by the coaches along with Miss Lord, Miss Ferranck and Miss Laipple. Much difficulty was recognized in choosing the ten people who displayed the most talent. The following people will continue in the contest as a result of the first preliminary trials: Marjorie Forsberg, Mildred Johnson, Janet Kampmann, Alyce Little, Viola Murphy, Ardelle Persson, Helen Sheets, Lena Shobe, Bernice Steinfield, Marcelle Workman. Further elimination before the local contest will be done on January 20.

Last Thursday a similar exercise was carried out in the humorous division. Judges besides the coaches were Mr. LaMeter, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Penrose. The following people, also subject to elimination, were selected as the six most promising humorists: Elizabeth Ervine, Elaine Cook, Howard Zander, Don Edstrom, Irja Hautala and Virginia Wilson.

Because of wilful withdrawals, there are at the present time only six people who will compete in the oratorical contest. No elimination has yet been found necessary, although some may be done later. The orator are Dwight Curd, Richard Ebert, Stewart Patterson, Zane Smith, Donald Nelson and Adolf Erickson.

On February 3, the local dramatic program will be given in the new auditorium at 7:45.

The dramatic representatives for B. H. S. will be selected at this time and will compete in the sub-district contest to be held soon. The following Brainerd residents have been asked to judge the contestants: Mrs. H. I. Cohen, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. A. C. Weber and Miss Louise Barrett.

Other local residents will act as judges in the humorous and oratorical divisions. Dates for tryouts and public programs in these groups will be decided upon soon.

CLASS IN JOURNALISM
TO BE CONDUCTED

Readers of the Brainerdian, not including the high school students, may not know the purpose of the weekly page edited by the high school students. It is (to show) the parents what the students are doing in school and to help the young writers along journalistic lines.

Miss Herwig, Brainerdian adviser, having instructed the staff for the last year and a half, thinks that the editor and reporters are now capable of publishing their own paper with a minimum amount of supervision.

Fifteen books, "Elements of Journalism" by Mary J. Wrinn, have been obtained for the use of the student writers. The state department of education does not permit a regular class of journalism in this high school, and so this extra class is the only means available. The class is open to everyone, but only those especially interested and who will come regularly will have books.

At present there are 20 staff members and ten underwriters. All Freshmen and Sophomores interested in writing for the Brainerdian, and wishing to become underwriters, should see David Weber.

A point system is being planned for all staff members to increase the quality of their writing.

HI-Y BUSINESS MEETING
HELD TO DISCUSS PLANS

Promptly at 7:15 last Wednesday night the Senior Hi-Y club met for the purpose of discussing business that had been left over from the holidays. The question concerning collecting of money for the club was stressed very urgently and the boys were told in no uncertain words that the money from the pencil sale must be turned in very soon.

The club boys also talked over a prospective social party in connection with the Tri-Hi club. This they expect to be a gala event and the outstanding feature of the Senior Hi-Y year. Preparations for this will be further decided at the supper meeting this week. The committee was appointed for this to take part of the necessary eating part.

Last but not least in the line of business the boys found out that they were elected to serve at the joint meeting of all the Y. M. C. A. clubs which take place the latter part of this month. The boys guarantee a good meal and it is rumored that Mr. Peterson is to wait on tables.

New York, Jan. 14.—Discussing the Babe Ruth salary dispute today, Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, made these pungent and interesting statements:

"On the present basis of possible financial returns in baseball, the salary limit for a player was reached with Ruth's old contract, which called for $70,000 a year. In offering him $75,000 I have gone beyond the limit.

"Stories about the tremendous profits of the New York club are imagination. In ten years Ruth has made more out of the Yankees than I have.

"In refusing a three-year contract to Ruth, I seek to protect the player himself, as well as my investment and the rights of all the other Yankees."

Pointing to Ruth's contract which was drawn up for two terms at $75,000 a season, Col. Ruppert said:

"This is the last word, and I don't want to be drawn into a controversy."

Ruth is fortunate that the ownership of the Yankees is not spread among a lot of stockholders. If it were they never would stand for offering him $150,000 for two years. The book value of Ruth could not possibly justify it.

"I am not insensible to what he has done for the club and the game, though I do feel he gives himself too much credit for the pennant victories of the Yankees. I told him the other day that in recent seasons there were other players who perhaps had done more toward these successes than had Ruth and his home runs."

Ruppert said he had discussed the matter of a new contract for Ruth with the late Miller Huggins last July, and Hugg had advised signing the Babe for only one year at a time.

"He said that the Ruth problem could be handled best and the Babe kept on his toes by single season contracts. He told me Ruth was slowing up."

"When Ruth told me the other day that he would get a three-year contract at $85,000 a season or quit, I reminded him that publicity in the sport pages had been a big factor in making possible his $70,000 salary."

"I said, 'Quit the diamond and where will you be? In a few days you will slide out of print. Nobody gets more newspaper attention than the president of the United States. How many columns a week do you read about Calvin Coolidge, now that he has retired to private life?'"

"At 36 a ball player is not in a position to demand what he did not get at 33. And I am convinced that the public is intrigued by nine good players fighting hard to win more than it is by eight fair players and an outstanding star.

"I told Ruth how much I appreciated what he had done for the Yankees, but I also pointed out how much he had cost me in the first place—and that he had taken exactly $520,000 in salary out of the Yankees' treasury, and picked up a small fortune in the world series prizes and other things."

"When we bought Ruth, he cost $125,000. But that wasn't all. Not by $375,000. Harry Frazee told me that he had loaned him $375,000 more. He insisted that he needed half a million dollars at once."

"Huggins was very strong about the Ruth matter, so I went the limit and laid out $500,000 to get the player. That $375,000 still is owing to me."

"We paid Ruth when he was out for weeks under suspension by Judge Landis. That wasn't our fault. We have gone along with him—and he's got to go along with us."

That game between the Rotarians and the Lions for the skating rink fund this evening ought to be a WOW. The WOW stands for the slogan of both teams—Watch Our Wind! The outcome of the contest may depend on just that, for cigarettes and heavy meals may have a telling effect on the outcome of the struggle.

In one way the contest is hardly fair owing to the fact that the Rotarians had their weekly sumptuous noon-day feed today. They are apt to be overfed, but that may be offset by the fact that the Lions don't eat until tomorrow evening and their shots at the basket may fall a little short because of lack of nourishment.

It might be a good thing for the high school squad to watch this service club game closely this evening for they might learn something of the art of free throw shooting from the business men. It is safe to say that the Lions and the Rotarians couldn't be much worse in this department of the game than the high school was last Friday night.

Both the Lions and the Rotarians have promised to put strong line-ups on the floor this evening. The tentative line-up for the Rotarians is Captain Hal Day and Hoffbauer, forwards; L. L. Peterson, center; and Frank Johnson and A. J. Sullivan, guards.

Hoffbauer, star forward for the Rotarians, confessed this morning that his eye for the hoop isn't quite what it ought to be for tonight's crucial contest, due to two years' layoff from bombarding the bankboard. But he admits that he had to get his evening meal last night and therefore should have the drop on the rest of the boys as far as his physical condition is concerned.

A whirlwind on the offense and a blanket on the defense are the words used to describe the play of L. L. Peterson, Rotarian center. There is some doubt as to whether he can control the tip-off but his general all-around ability is expected to offset this defect, if it exists.

As a sort of an appetizer for Ward's Brainerd Five this evening, Crosby defeated Bemidji Co. K 36-30 Sunday afternoon. Just what Ward's have been doing to get ready for the contest isn't known, but it is a pretty sure bet that they will be in condition this evening, for just now a victory over the Rangers would help a lot.

A game between Bemidji Co. K, and Brainerd high wouldn't be so unequal. Bemidji is weak from the free throw line also. They attribute their loss to Crosby Sunday to just that fault.

It is rumored that basketball is making great strides in Scotland, where the game has become very popular—due, we presume, to the "free" throw angle of the sport.

Brainerd is fortunate, indeed, in having a coach of the calibre of Warren E. Kasch. He has produced worthy teams in every sport in the past, and this season he has brought forth a basketball team which will go far in the tournament, despite the early season setbacks due to lack of practice facilities. With the new gym available, it won't be long before he has ironed out the weaknesses on the Blue and White squad.

No matter who wins those two hardwood battles this evening, it will mean a boost for the skating rink fund and that means a boost for good clean sport in Brainerd.

Jack Wilson may fight "Arthur the Great" anyway. It would be a shame if it turns out to be an outdoor fight in the afternoon, for Artie might make Jack face the sun and then the Cub outfielder might catch it on the whiskers—if he caught it at all.

Now Pape admits that he played semi-pro football. Isn't it nice that he didn't think to tell the boys about it during the football season? It would have cost Iowa several touchdowns if he had.

Jack Dempsey thinks that Jack Sharkey is the best of the present crop of heavies. Crop is a good word all right, but the crop this year seems to be poor. It is a shame that somebody doesn't come along and cut the crop, even though it wouldn't be much of a harvest.

The Lions camp is very quiet about its line-up for the game this evening. The Rotarians are depending on some neatly planned strategy. Perhaps the Lions—like the Lord of the Jungle—will depend upon a blood curdling roar to freeze their opponents into inaction while they strike.

New York, Jan. 14.—(UP)—The Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Browns tied for first place in team fielding, each with an average of .975, according to the official American League fielding figures released today. The Browns accepted 5,971 chances and the Athletics 5,684.

A triple play was executed five times in 1929. The Yankees made two, the White Sox, Tigers and Browns one each.

Cleveland, leader in double plays in 1928 with 187, repeated the past season with 162.

Joe Judge of Washington, who played 142 games and compiled an average of .995, led the first basemen. Charles Gehring of Detroit led the second basemen with an average of .975. Willie Karmann of the White Sox led the third basemen again with an average of .978. Shortstops were far below par, with Joe Boley of the Athletics the best of the mediocre field. He played in only 88 games, fielding .963.

Al Simmons of the Athletics and Fred Schulte of the Browns tied for outfielding honors, each with an average of .989.

Thirteen pitchers who were in 24 or more games went through the season with perfect records.

Muddy Ruel of Washington led the catchers with a mark of .990 for 63 games, but Mickey Cochrane of the Athletics, who played in 135 games and handled 649 chances for an average of .893, was unanimously chosen the best catcher of 1929.

HAS TOTAL OF 6545 PINS IN 36
GAMES FOR 181 PLUS 29
PINS AVERAGE

VAN ESSEN OCCUPIES SECOND PLACE WITH TOTAL OF
6513 PINS

High averages of Straight Away League bowlers follow:

Demmers with a 537 total took high average last evening. He has tallied 6546 pins in 36 games for 181 plus 29 pins average. Van Essen occupies second place with 6513 pins for 180 plus 3 pins average and is 32 pins behind Demmers' total pins. Hagberg is in third place with 6478 pins, 33 pins behind Van Essen. His average is 179 plus 34 pins. Elide holds fourth high average with 6473 pins total and is only five pins behind Hagberg. A good night's bowling for any of the last three bowlers would put him in first place, as the difference in averages is very slight. Hagberg, Van Essen and now Demmers have held first place, respectively, in the last three weeks. Who will it be next week is the question.

In the Straight Away League last evening Van's Cafe dropped two to the hustling Alderman-Maghan five. Cameron was high bowler in this match with 577, topping Engbretson by three pins. Although Engbretson and Demmers both hit over the 200 mark in the last game, Van's team lost by 50 pins.

Peterson Clothing came through with two wins over Lively Auto Co. McGarry led the boys in this match with 587, and was also high bowler for the evening. Guin trailed by one pin, rolling a nice 586 count and Hess tallied 562. Four bowlers on the Lively team tallied over 550, Christianson 588, Olson 571, Speck Hansen 554 and Johnson 551.

"The Two Black Crows"

Moran and Mack have temporarily forsaken the New York stage, to the concern of the George Whites, the Earl Carrolls and the Florenz Ziegfelds, all of whom have starred them at one time or another, and will be seen and heard in Brainerd in a new Paramount all-talking, singing and dancing comedy-romance, appropriately titled, "Why Bring That Up?" tonight and Wednesday. The pictures, it is said, gives them full opportunity to carry on their special line of humor and also to play the leading roles in a story said to be based on their personal experiences in the theatre. In support of these two famous comedians are Evelyn Brent and Harry Green. George Abbott of the New York stage directed "Why Bring That Up?"

"STORM-TOSSED"

BY HELEN SCHERMERHORN YOUNG

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

BOTH Ned Grier and Dick Grant, college mates, are in love with young and pretty, Enid Monroe. When Dick is sent to Shanghai by the oil company for which both men work, Ned wins Enid by telling her that Dick is living with an Eurasian woman in Shanghai. Enid consents in wounded pride to marry Ned. Dick returns to America, expecting to propose to Enid. He learns she is to be married to Ned very soon and that he is expected to act as best man. He goes to New York and does the honors as best friend of both bride and groom. Returning to San Francisco, he buries himself in his work. On her honeymoon, Enid realizes she did not marry for love.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XVI.

THE two weeks were nearly up. Ned was obliged to return to the office, and Jim Easton was bringing up a party.

Enid sang while she packed her trunk and, as Ned held her in his arms before they left the room where they had loved, she was thinking how nice it would be to get back to New York.

It was good that Enid had come from stern stock—ancestors who had conquered a new country and held it for their own. Among her forebears were colonial judges, grim and unyielding, an early governor who had ruled his colony with an iron hand. In every war of her country had her family's blood been shed. The fortitude of her ancestors flowed in her veins. She, too, was going into a strange country where there might be heartbreaking disappointments and perhaps hardships with which to grapple.

Ned was her husband. She was his wife. For him she had affection. He had offered to her the chance of love—she had drunk it of deep draughts.

Are all marriages like this? How does one know? She was married to him. She would be a good wife and mother to his children. She would preside over his home with dignity and conscience. Perhaps, after all, that was the important thing in marriage.

THE INVITATION

Get away from it, Dick had planned. Avoid Enid and Ned. That sounded easy. But when Ned's letter came telling of their honeymoon in the Adirondacks and how happy he was and how much they both wanted to see him, Dick had almost as hard a day as those days on the train.

The next day he hurled himself into his work; his brain was so busy that he thought of them only in flashes.

Several times during the year he had the opportunity of going East for the company, but he managed to make it appear that it would be better to send another man.

How different from other years. New York! But to him now New York was almost a terror. He didn't know how he could see Enid again as Ned's wife.

As the months wore on he grew stronger. He never had felt any bitterness. That wasn't fair, and Richard Grant was just an honest thinker. It was his gnawing ache which was his misery.

"Stay away from New York; stay away from there. That's the thing. Keep away from temptation."

He laughed to himself. Temptation wasn't the word. Torment, that was it. Stay away from the torment.

But the torment came across the three thousand miles to him. It started with a letter from Ned.

Dear old Dick:
Enid and I are going West early in July to spend my vacation at Serana, Dave's ranch. We are coming by way of San Francisco and hope you will be in town. Enid says she is the original tenderfoot and already is getting nervous about the great open spaces.

Then a paragraph devoted to business.

Shortly after Ned's letter arrived, Dave called Dick on the long-distance telephone.

"Hello, Dick."

"That you, Dave?"

"Yes. You know Ned and Enid are coming out?"

"Yes, Ned wrote me."

"Why don't you take your vacation now and come down for the month they are here?"

"That's very kind of you, Dave, but I'm afraid I can't get away just now. Pretty busy these days."

"But you've a vacation coming to you."

"Not just now."

"Then make it the first week-end you can."

"I'll do that. Thanks."

"Well, so long. Come on down as soon as you can. Just send a wire and come along; I've got a new horse for you to try."

Dick had really planned to take his vacation about the time of Ned and Enid's arrival, but after his talk with Dave and the insistent invitation he asked his chief if he could have his vacation changed—he'd rather a month in the winter.

He wouldn't turn Dave down and refuse flatly. It would have been the most natural thing in the world for him to spend a month at Dave's ranch with his old friends. Wherever they were, it was a foregone conclusion that the trio would gather together if possible. And they all knew that he loved ranch life, and especially ranch life in the mountains with long, hard trails to ride, better than anything on earth. But this could not be. He couldn't stand to be there with Ned and Enid for a whole month and know that they were close to him night and day. And to know that Enid was Ned's wife and that she loved him.

No, there was no necessity for subjecting himself to that punishment. It was hard enough when they were in the East, but to live close to them—that he would not stand.

When word came that it would be satisfactory for him to wait until February for his vacation, he breathed a great sigh of relief. That was over. If Enid and Ned came by the northern route to San Francisco he could be out of town.

But that was a shabby way to treat old Ned. And besides he wanted to see him. He couldn't let this interfere with their long years of friendship.

He'd have to face it. That's all there was to it.

So, when he received news that Ned and Enid were coming via San Francisco for the special purpose of seeing him, he said to his mother:

"Dear, Enid and Ned will be in town for a few days, week after next. I thought you might want to give a dinner for them."

"How lovely!" exclaimed Mrs. Grant. "We'll make out the list right now. Wouldn't you like to invite them to stay here, dear? It would be so nice to have them. Your father would like it, too."

"No—no thank you, Mother. They're only stopping over on their way to Serana. Ned wired me to get rooms at the St. Francis.

The day they were to arrive he was awake with the sun. He breakfasted before his mother and father came down. To the St. Francis he went and saw with his own eyes that the room was like a bridal bower with the beautiful flowers of his country. Enid loved flowers. Wait! She'd never really seen flowers; wait until she saw the flowers of California.

He looked at his watch. He'd planned to take the day off. Before he knew it he was on the train going to Sacramento to meet and surprise them there.

He rode through the hot valley. As he walked back and forth on the platform waiting for the Overland to come in sight, he thought the time would never pass. And the train was on time.

The whistle blew. There she came all dusty like a veteran hom from the war after her pull across the continent and over the Rockies.

Dick jumped on the train and started through the cars, peering into each compartment. The next car and the next. Then he suddenly saw Ned with his long legs stretched out and his feet on the seat opposite—Enid's shining head snuggled against his shoulder and her hand lying in his.

He stood for a moment to catch his breath.

"Dick!" from Enid, and a louder, joyful "Dick!" from Ned.

Enid reached right up and kissed him. In the confusion of sharp slaps on the back and wringing of hands the flush on Dick's face passed unnoticed.

SERANA.

"Think of any one back home traveling to Albany to greet friend!" exclaimed Enid. "Dick, you're welcoming us to your your native State like royalty. You make me feel regal." And Enid laughed like a child.

Regal? He would have crowned her with a crown of jewels, draped her in velvet and ermine, sat her on a throne and worshiped at her feet.

They had so much to talk about, the hours flew. That night they went to Tai's on the beach, to dine, and when Enid said, "Dick, aren't you going to ask me to dance? I've never heard such music in my life," he almost had to wrench himself out of his chair.

During the dance Dick made a bold effort to keep a continual stream of conversation flowing. He talked about everything and anything. Once when Enid turned her head and its soft silkiness brushed his chin he stopped abruptly and led her back to the table.

"What's the matter, old man?" laughed Ned.

They were at a table in one of the small rooms off of the big one. In a few minutes a man with a steel guitar came in, drew a chair up in front of their table and played—a love song and played it so plaintively and with such longing that Dick thought he could no longer mask his feelings.

He excused himself, left the table and walked into the foyer on the pretense of getting some cigarettes.

He did not ask Enid to dance again that evening.

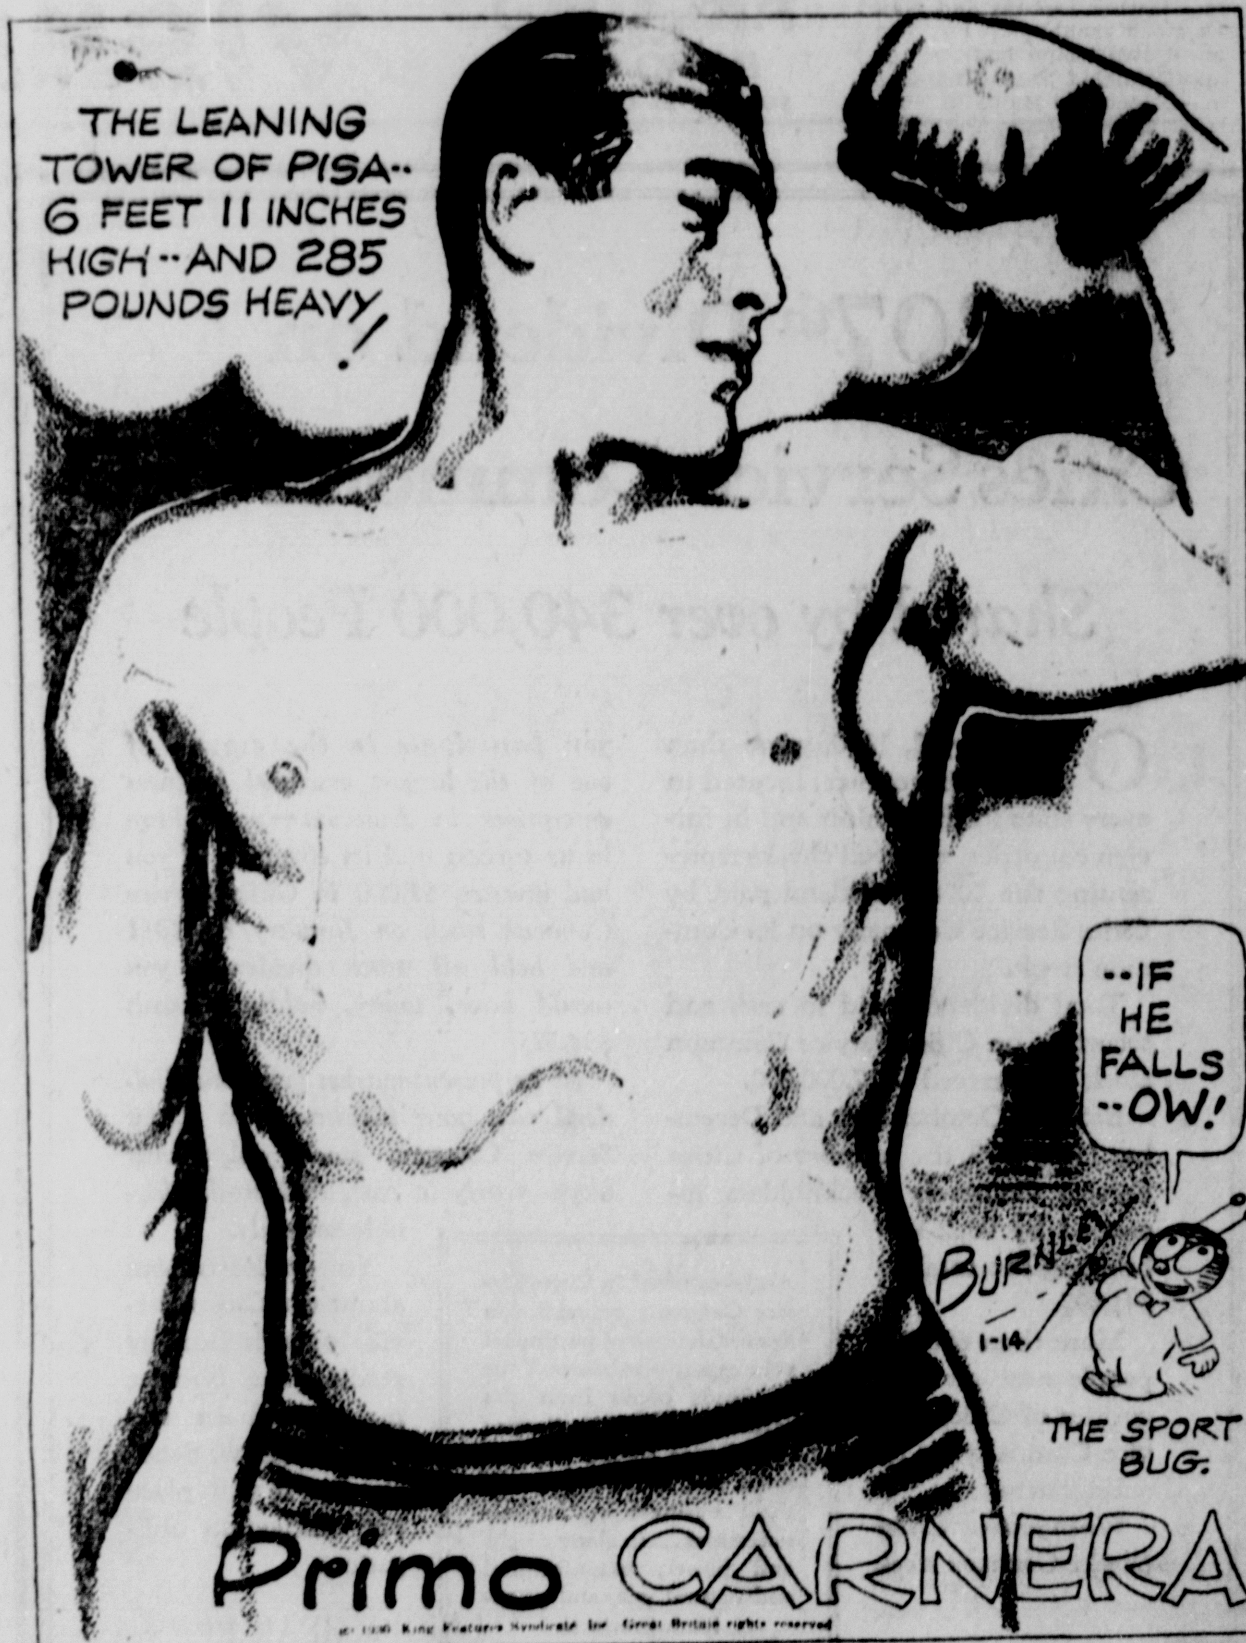

Presently they left. As Enid was stepping into Dick's car the strong wind from the Pacific blew her cloak from her shoulder. Dick caught it and gently placed it around her. In doing so his hand touched her soft bare shoulder. He thought he would go mad.

AMERICAN fans are always sarcastically skeptical concerning the championship qualities of huge beefy boxers, particularly foreigners; but they are wont to pay in large numbers to see such big boys tumbled. And so a prosperous if not a successful New Year seems to lie ahead of Primo Carnera, the 6-foot-11, 280-pounder who was recently imported from Italy to add interest to our obviously sluggish heavyweight situation.

Carnera is indeed a physical marvel and he may surprise many when more experience in the ring. Thus far, Primo has smashed down a few obscure European bruisers and figured in two rather lively bouts with William (Young) Stripling, winning and losing on a foul in each instance. Stripling gave the

In one way the contest is hardly fair owing to the fact that the Rotarians had their weekly sumptuous noon-day feed today. They are apt to be overfed, but that may be offset by the fact that the Lions don't eat until tomorrow evening and their shots at the basket may fall a little short because of lack of nourishment.

It might be a good thing for the high school squad to watch this service club game closely this evening for they might learn something of the art of free throw shooting from the business men. It is safe to say that the Lions and the Rotarians couldn't be much worse in this department of the game than the high school was last Friday night.

Both the Lions and the Rotarians have promised to put strong line-ups on the floor this evening. The tentative line-up for the Rotarians is Captain Hal Day and Hoffbauer, forwards; I. L. Peterson, center; and Frank Johnson and A. J. Sullivan, guards.

Hoffbauer, star forward for the Rotarians, confessed this morning that his eye for the hoop isn't quite what it ought to be for tonight's crucial contest, due to two years' layoff from bombarding the bankboard. But he admits that he had to get his evening meal last night and therefore should have the drop on the rest of the boys as far as his physical condition is concerned.

A whirlwind on the offense and a blanket on the defense are the words used to describe the play of I. L. Peterson, Rotarian center. There is some doubt as to whether he can control the tip-off but his general all-around ability is expected to offset this defect, if it exists.

As a sort of an appetizer for Ward's Brainerd Five this evening, Crosby defeated Bemidji Co. K 36-30 Sunday afternoon. Just what Ward's have been doing to get ready for the contest isn't known, but it is a pretty sure bet that they will be in condition this evening, for just now a victory over the Rangers would help a lot.

A game between Bemidji Co. K. and Brainerd high wouldn't be so unequal. Bemidji is weak from the free throw line also. They attribute their loss to Crosby Sunday to just that fault.

It is rumored that basketball is making great strides in Scotland, where the game has become very popular—due, we presume, to the "free" throw angle of the sport.

Brainerd is fortunate, indeed, in having a coach of the calibre of Warren E. Kusch. He has produced worthy teams in every sport in the past, and this season he has brought forth a basketball team which will go far in the tournament, despite the early season setbacks due to lack of practice facilities. With the new gym available, it won't be long before he has ironed out the weaknesses on the Blue and White squad.

No matter who wins those two hardwood battles this evening, it will mean a boost for the skating rink fund and that means a boost for good clean sport in Brainerd.

Hack Wilson may fight "Arthur the Great" anyway. It would be a shame if it turns out to be an outdoor fight in the afternoon, for Artie might make Hack face the sun and then the Cub outfielder might catch it on the whiskers—if he caught it at all.

Now Pape admits that he played semi-pro football. Isn't it nice that he didn't think to tell the boys about it during the football season? It would have cost Iowa several touchdowns if he had.

Jack Dempsey thinks that Jack Sharkey is the best of the present crop of heavies. Crop is a good word all right, but the crop this year seems to be poor. It is a shame that somebody doesn't come along and cut the crop, even though it wouldn't be much of a harvest.

The Lions camp is very quiet about its line-up for the game this evening. The Rotarians are depending on some neatly planned strategy. Perhaps the Lions—like the Lord of the Jungle—will depend upon a blood curdling roar to freeze their opponents into inaction while they strike.

Godiva's Horse Too Frisky
The honor of carrying Lady Godiva in a carnival at Dudley, England, was too much for her steed. The white horse, unused to bearing a lady in fleshings before a huge crowd, became excited and began to prance dangerously. Miss Lucille Smith, the Lady Godiva, hastily dismounted, and was taken to a house, where she rested until a quieter steed could be found. Then the march proceeded.

CEPTED 5,684 CHANCES

TRIPLE PLAY EXECUTED FIVE
TIMES IN 1929, CLEVELAND
MADE 162 DOUBLE PLAYS

New York, Jan. 14.—(U.P.)—The Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Browns tied for first place in team fielding, each with an average of .975, according to the official American League fielding figures released today. The Browns accepted 5,971 chances and the Athletics 5,684.

A triple play was executed five times in 1929. The Yankees made two, the White Sox, Tigers and Browns one each.

Cleveland, leader in double plays in 1929 with 187, repeated the past season with 162.

Joe Judge of Washington, who played 142 games and compiled an average of .993, led the first basemen. Charles Gehring of Detroit led the second basemen with an average of .975. Willie Kamm of the White Sox led the third basemen again with an average of .978. Shortstops were far below par, with Joe Eoley of the Athletics the best of the mediocre field. He played in only 88 games, fielding .963.

Al Simmons of the Athletics and Fred Schulte of the Browns tied for outfielding honors, each with an average of .989.

Thirteen pitchers who were in 24 or more games went through the season with perfect records.

Muddy Ruel of Washington led the catchers with a mark of .990 for 63 games, but Mickey Cochrane of the Athletics, who played in 135 games and handled 649 chances for an average of .883, was unanimously chosen the best catcher of 1929.

DEMERS WITH 537 LEADS IN HIGH AVERAGE

HAS TOTAL OF 6545 PINS IN 33
GAMES FOR 181 PLUS 19
PINS AVERAGE

VAN ESSEN OCCUPIES SECOND
PLACE WITH TOTAL OF
6513 PINS

High averages of Straight Away League bowlers follow:

Demmers with a 537 total took high average last evening. He has tallied 6545 pins in 36 games for 181 plus 29 pins average. Van Essen occupies second place with 6513 pins for 180 plus 3 pins average and is 32 pins behind Demmers' total pins. Hagberg is in third place with 6478 pins, 33 pins behind Van Essen. His average is 179 plus 34 pins. Elde holds fourth high average with 6473 pins total and is only five pins behind Hagberg. A good night's bowling for any of the last three bowlers would put him in first place, as the difference in averages is very slight. Hagberg, Van Essen and now Demmers have held first place, respectively, in the last three weeks. Who will it be next week is the question.

In the Straight Away League last evening Van's Cafe dropped two to the hustling Alderman-Maghan five. Cachron was high bowler in this match with 577 topping Engbretson by three pins. Although Engbretson and Demmers both hit over the 200 mark in the last game, Van's team lost by 50 pins.

Peterson Clothing came through with two wins over Lively Auto Co. McGarry led the boys in this match with 587, and was also high bowler for the evening. Guin trailed by one pin, rolling a nice 586 count and Hess tallied 562. Four bowlers on the Lively team tallied over 550, Christianson 583, Olson 571, Speck Hansen 584 and Johnson 551.

"The Two Black Crows"
Moran and Mack have temporarily forsaken the New York stage, to the concern of the George Whites, the Earl Carrolls and the Florenz Ziegfelds, all of whom have starred them at one time or another, and will be seen and heard in Brainerd in a new Paramount all-talking, singing and dancing comedy-romance, appropriately titled, "Why Bring That Up?" tonight and Wednesday. The picture, it is said, gives them full opportunity to carry on their special line of humor and also to play the leading roles in a story said to be based on their personal experiences in the theatre. In support of these two famous comedians are Evelyn Brent and Harry Green. George Abbott of the New York stage directed "Why Bring That Up?"

"STORM-TOSSED"

BY HELEN SCHERMERHORN YOUNG

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

BOTH Ned Grier and Dick Grant, college mates, are in love with young and pretty, Enid Monroe. When Dick is sent to Shanghai by the oil company for which both men work, Ned wins Enid by telling her that Dick is living with an Eurasian woman in Shanghai. Enid consents in wounded pride to marry Ned. Dick returns to America, expecting to propose to Enid. He learns she is to be married to Ned very soon and that he is expected to act as best man. He goes to New York and does the honors as best friend of both bride and groom. Returning to San Francisco, he buries himself in his work. On her honeymoon, Enid realizes she did not marry for love.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XVI.

TWO weeks were nearly up. Ned was obliged to return to the office, and Jim Easton was bringing up a party. Enid sang while she packed her trunk and, as Ned held her in his arms before they left the room where they had loved, she was thinking how nice it would be to get back to New York.

It was good that Enid had come from stern stock—ancestors who had conquered a new country and held it for their own. Among her forebears were colonial judges, grim and unyielding, an early governor who had ruled his colony with an iron hand. In every way of her country had her family's blood been shed. The fortitude of her ancestors flowed in her veins. She, too, was going into a strange country where there might be heartbreaking disappointments and perhaps hardships with which to wrangle.

Ned was her husband. She was his wife. For him she had affection. He had offered to her the chalice of love—she had drunk of it deep draughts.

Are all marriages like this? How does one know? She was married to him. She would be a good wife and mother to his children. She would preside over his home with dignity and conscience. Perhaps, after all, that was the important thing in marriage.

THE INVITATION
Get away from it, Dick had planned. Avoid Enid and Ned. That sounded easy. But when Ned's letter came telling of their honeymoon in the Adirondacks and how happy he was and how much they both wanted to see him, Dick had almost as hard a day as those days on the train.

The next day he hurried himself into his work; his brain was so busy that he thought of them only in flashes.

Several times during the year he had the opportunity of going East for the company, but he managed to make it appear that it would be better to send another man.

How different from other years. New York! But to him now New York was almost a terror. He didn't know how he could see Enid again as Ned's wife.

As the months wore on he grew stronger. He never had felt any bitterness. That wasn't fair, and Richard Grant was just an honest thinker. It was the gnawing ache which was his misery.

"Stay away from New York; stay away from there. That's the thing. Keep away from temptation."

He laughed to himself. Temptation wasn't the word. Temptation was it. Stay away from the torment.

But the torment came across the three thousand miles to him. It started with a letter from Ned. Dear old Dick:

Enid and I are going West early in July to spend my vacation at Serana. Dave's ranch. We are coming by way of San Francisco and hope you will be in town. Enid says she is the original tenderfoot and already their way to Serana. Ned wired me to get rooms at the St. Francis.

The day they were to arrive he was awake with the sun. He breakfasted before his mother and father came down. To the St. Francis he went and saw with his own eyes that the room was like a bridal bower with the beautiful flowers of his country. Enid loved flowers. Wait! She'd never really seen flowers; wait until she saw the flowers of California.

He looked at his watch. He'd planned to take the day off. Before he knew it he was on the train going to Sacramento to meet and surprise them there.

He rode through the hot valley. As he walked back and forth on the platform waiting for the Overland to come in sight, he thought the time would never pass. And the train was on time, too.

The whistle blew. There she came all dusty like a veteran hom from the war after her pull across the continent and over the Rockies. Dick jumped from the car, peering into each compartment. The next car and the next. Then he suddenly saw Ned with his long legs stretched out and his feet on the seat opposite—Enid's shining head snuggled against his shoulder and her hand lying in his.

He stood for a moment to catch his breath.

"Dick!" from Enid, and a louder, joyful "Dick!" from Ned. Enid reached right up and kissed him. In the confusion of sharp slaps on the back and wringing of hands the flush on Dick's face passed unnoticed.

SERANA.

"Think of any one back home traveling to Albany to greet a friend!" exclaimed Enid. "Dick, you're welcoming us to your your native State like royalty. You make me feel regal." And Enid laughed like a child.

Regal? He would have crowned her with a crown of jewels, draped her in velvet and ermine, sat her on a throne and worshiped at her feet.

They had so much to talk about. The hours flew. That night they went to Tai's on the beach, to dine, and when Enid said, "Dick, aren't you going to ask me to dance? I've never heard such music in my life," he almost had to wrench himself out of his chair.

During the dance Dick made a bold effort to keep a continual stream of conversation flowing. He talked about everything and anything. Once when Enid turned her head and its soft silkiness brushed his chin he stopped abruptly and led her back to the table.

"What's the matter, old man?" laughed Ned.

They were at a table in one of the small rooms off of the big one.

In a few minutes a man with a steel guitar came in, dressed a chair in front of their table and played—played a love song and played it so plaintively and with such longing that Dick thought he could no longer mask his feelings.

He excused himself, left the table and walked out into the foyer on the pretense of getting some cigarettes.

He did not ask Enid to dance again that evening.

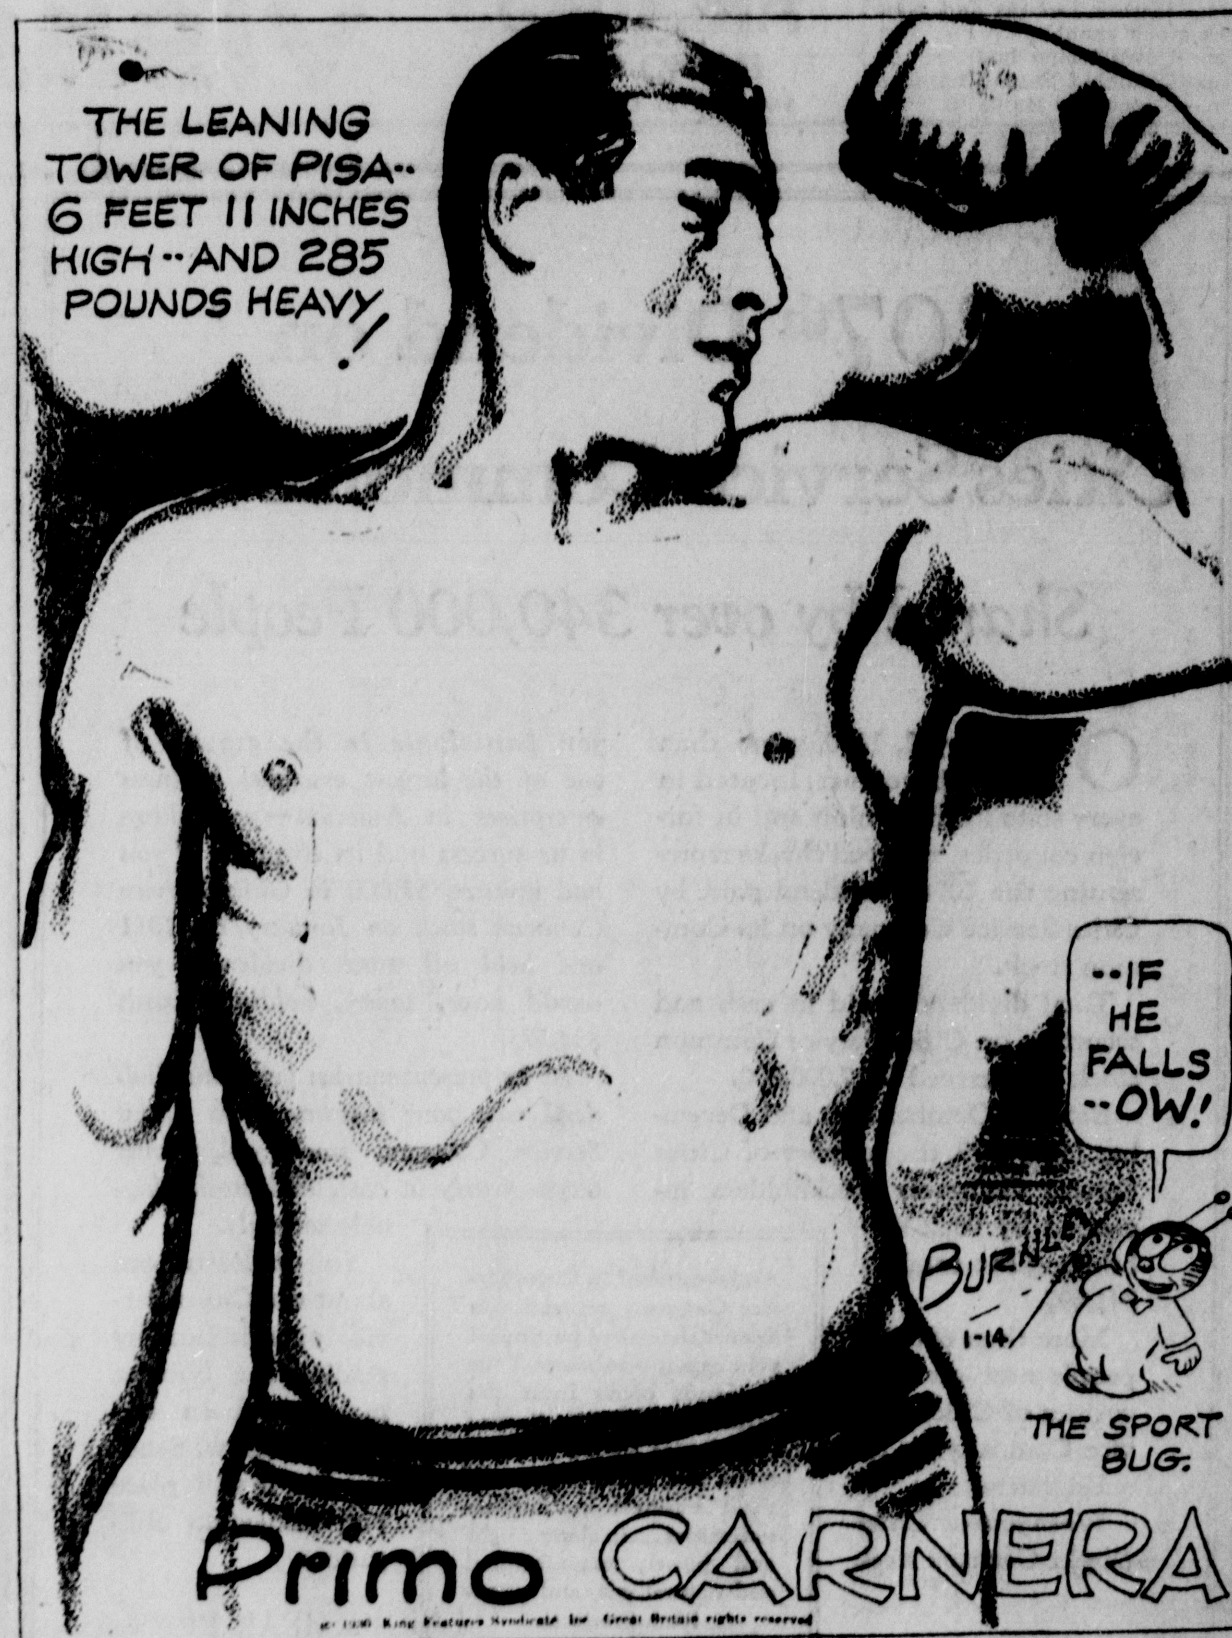

Presently they left. As Enid was stepping into Dick's car the strong wind from the Pacific blew her cloak from her shoulder. Dick caught it and gently placed it around her. In doing so his hand touched her soft bare shoulder. He thought he would go mad.

"The Bigger They Are"---

By HARDIN BURNLEY

AMERICAN fans are always sarcastically skeptical concerning the championship qualities of huge beefy boxers, particularly foreigners; but they are wont to pay in large numbers to see such big boys tumbled. And so a properous if not a successful New Year seems to be ahead of Primo Carnera, the 6-foot-11, 280-pounder who was recently imported from Italy to add interest to our obviously sluggish heavy-weight situation.

Carnera is indeed a physical marvel and he may surprise many when more experienced in the ring. Thus far, Primo has smashed down a few obscure European bruisers and figure in two rather lively bouts with William (Young) Stribling, winning and losing on a foul in each instance. Strib gave the giant a sound boxing lesson on each occasion, but the titanic Italian showed remarkable strength and courage. Incidentally, Carnera was the first to ever score a knockdown against the agile and clever Georgia boy.

If this Latin Leviathan would, or could, learn to box with the technique of experience, his championship dreams might be realized; but the chances are he will be rushed into the ring against our better-class trial horses and he probably will be spoiled the same way Luis Angel Firpo was when catapulted into Jack Dempsey during the latter's blazing prime.

Think of what they did to Carnera in sending him against Stribling, one of the smartest and cleverest of all active heavies! Even tremendous size advantage could not offset experience under the circumstances.

Following that matchmaking precedent, "The Sport Bug" would not be surprised if "Fiddle Feet" (as Jackie Farrell calls him) is given Johnny Risko or George Godfrey as trial horses should he get by Jimmy Maloney of Boston. Of course, should Maloney defeat Carnera badly it will greatly diminish Primo's value as a box office magnet. But if the Gargantuan Gladiator beats Jimmy or gives him a thrilling battle, a fortune is assured the one-time circus strong man who, as a boy, walked the streets of his native Venice shod (so they say) in gondolas. Otherwise, Carnera merely will be recorded in fistic history as another of the ring's freaks. He simply will be remembered as "Fiddle Feet" (their size threw Mr. Gene Tunney into ecstasies of astonishment!) long after his name has been forgotten.

More and More COLDs treated EXTERNALLY

A GENERATION AGO, Vicks originated the better method of treating colds externally. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and the demand for Vicks has increased to "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Mothers appreciate Vicks, because there's no "dosing" to upset children's stomachs. It is equally good for adults. Just rubbed on, Vicks acts thru the skin like a plaster; it also gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled.

Will Rogers with Fifi Dorsay in "They Had To See Paris," all talking Fox Movietone comedy drama

Will Rogers, actor, humorist and philosopher, is known to most everyone. He has been the star of a number of Mr. Ziegfeld's celebrated "Follies." Last year he was the reason for the sensational success of "Three Cheers," one of the most hilarious musical comedies seen on Broadway in many seasons. His comments on the presidential campaign in the show are still heard on and about Broadway. His humorous writings in short column form appear daily in newspapers. In national affairs, he has been referred to as "America's ambassador of good will." In short, Will Rogers is practically an American institution. And so the debut of Will Rogers on the audible screen in the Fox all-talking comedy, "They Had To See Paris," has aroused considerable curiosity. This picture, which will be shown at the Paramount Thursday and Friday, presents Will Rogers in a role that promises to reveal him at his very best.

Will Rogers with Fifi Dorsay in "They Had To See Paris," all talking Fox Movietone comedy drama

Will Rogers, actor, humorist and philosopher, is known to most everyone. He has been the star of a number of Mr. Ziegfeld's celebrated "Follies." Last year he was the reason for the sensational success of "Three Cheers," one of the most hilarious musical comedies seen on Broadway in many seasons. His comments on the presidential campaign in the show are still heard on and about Broadway. His humorous writings in short column form appear daily in nearly 200 newspapers. In national affairs, he has even been referred to as "America's ambassador of good will." In short, Will Rogers is practically an American institution.

And so the debut of Will Rogers on the audible screen in the Fox all-talking comedy, "They Had To See Paris," has aroused considerable curiosity. This picture, which will be shown at the Paramount Thursday and Friday, presents Will Rogers in a role that promises to reveal him at his very best.
